Nazis and Italy Strive for Grip on Mexico

FASCISTS TAKE OIL SEIZED FROM U. S. AND BRITAIN

Vie with Reds for Cardenas' Favor.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 18—[By Air Mail.]—Mexico, always more or less a totalitarian state, has become a battleground for backers of communism and Fascism. Communists drew the first blood, but the Fascists now appear to be drawing the profits.

President Cardenas.

The German Nazis have a big colony in Mexico. Germany and Italy are getting large supplies of oil from the wells seized by the Mexican government from American and British owners. They are obtaining this oil largely on a barter basis, sending to Mexico vast quantities of manufactured goods.

German trade with Mexico increased 12 per cent in the first quarter of 1938. Germany has spent big sums for advertisments in Mexican publications, boosting Reichsfuehrer Hitler's Germany and its friendship for the Latin nations. A result of the Nazi propaganda is seen in the recent growth of anti-Semitism in Mexico.

Mexican Sticks to Family.

Communism is taught in the schools, but it loses effect in the Mexican's inborn love for his family. The child is taught during the day that he belongs to the state. He goes home, throws his books in a corner, and allows as how he belongs to his papa and mama.

Mexico's relief problem is solved largely by family ties. When one family gets hungry it simply moves in with another and they share.

President Lazaro Cardenas declares all communists believe in state ownership of land. All Mexicans want to own their own land. That is the theory of the National Revolutionary [government] party and the basis for the six year plan which was put into effect in 1934. Whether it works remains to be seen. So far Cardenas has the common people, labor unions, and racketeers for him, his opponents declare.

Division of Large Estates.

The government party considers the distribution of land and its more effective development to be the most important social problem of the nation. The peasants, the plan says, must be given full opportunity to free themselves from peonage and become independent farmers. This is to be accomplished by the splitting up of expropriated large estates and communal lands. Already much land has been seized from large haciendas.

When Cortez conquered Mexico 400 years ago he made presents of great estates to his generals. The natives became virtual slaves. Not until 1911 when President Porfirio Diaz was chased out did any semblance of a middle class appear. Before that there had been a huge gap between the peons and the landed proprietors.

Cardenas Pushes Plan.

Cardenas is forcefully pushing the government's plan which has resulted in the expropriation of large estates, foreign owned land, oil and public service properties, and restrictions on mining which are practically forcing foreign owners to give their properties to the government.

Despite the value of its oil, silver, and gold, Mexico is a relatively poor country because only about 10 per cent of its area can be cultivated and crops have been poor the last three years. Mexicans charge that foreigners have controled their agriculture and left the nation only a 5 per cent share of the yield from mineral resources.

Though Mexico has not made a great effort to build up the flow of oil from seized British and American properties, the government strives to continue the steady production of silver and sell it to the United States at the Roosevelt price of 44 cents per ounce.

Baby Asleep in Stolen Car as It Crashes Is Unhurt

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—A baby girl, 18 months old, was found asleep in a hanging basket in a stolen automobile that was wrecked in a collision with a truck today. The child, Margaret Oliver, daughter of Manuel Oliver was uninjured. The car was abandoned after the collision, but the thief left in such a hurry that he forgot his cap and papers, which identified him. A short while later the police arrested Edward Kelly, 17 years old, and held him on a charge of larceny. He did not know that the baby was in the car.

SCIENTIFIC ARM OF CITY POLICE BEST IN NATION

Lie Detector Is Best Known Device.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

(Pictures on back page.)

[This is the last in a series of articles telling of improvements that have been made in the Chicago police department in recent years—improvements reflected in a decrease in crime.]

As a result of some bargain hunting last summer by Mayor Kelly, the Chicago police department has the most complete scientific laboratory for dealing with crime available to any department in the country.

The institution now known as the Chicago police scientific crime detection laboratory was purchased for $25,000. That is about one-tenth the amount spent to develop it during the nine years it was a department of Northwestern university, and less than half the cost of its physical equipment alone.

Captains Attend Lectures.

Already the work of coördinating the laboratory facilities with police activities has started. In groups of ten, all captains have attended a short lecture course in which they were told what the laboratory is equipped to do, and what crimes it can help them solve. The captains are to be followed by men assigned to the homicide squad and other detective bureau details which will make the most of it.

Fred E. Inbau, who has been retained as director of the laboratory, has continually stressed one point in his talks with police. Scientific crime detection is not a new and miraculous substitute for accepted police activities, but merely a valuable aid to the hard working policeman.

"The laboratory is useful only to the extent that it is coördinated with police activity," he says.

Guard Staf's Time.

The lectures for police officials and detectives are part of this coördination. In addition, one police official, probably the chief of detectives, will be designated an admitting officer for the laboratory. He will approve all requests for use of its facilities, to prevent waste of the staf's time.

In addition to Director Inbau, who specializes in the legal problems involved in acceptance of scientific tests as evidence in court the laboratory has had four full time specialists in microanalysis and chemistry, firearms and ballistics, the polygraph, or lie detector, and identification of documents. The staf is to be increased, by men from police ranks and trained by the present staf.

The so-called lie detector is perhaps the best known of the scientific devices developed in the Chicago laboratory. By measuring physical reactions to questions, it indicates, according to its sponsors, whether the subject being examined is telling the truth.

Useful in Crime Work.

Its evidence is not legally admissible, but nevertheless, where suspects consent to undergo the test, it has proved valuable in criminal investiga

THE WORLD'S STRUGGLE AGAINST TYRANNY—WE'RE DOING OUR PART

A Girl Known Only as Alice Dies in Mystery

Police last night sought to break the veil of mystery surrounding a young woman named Alice. She was found dead under strange circumstances early yesterday in the street in the 1200 block of Adams street.

Two park district policemen came upon her body accidentally. It lay, face up, in the center of the pavement. The clothing was disarranged. The shoes were missing.

Believe Body Placed There.

The condition of the soles of the stockings indicated that the woman may have walked several feet without shoes. But police were sure that she had not walked far. They believe the shoes were removed by the person who placed her body in the street. They are certain her body was placed where it was found, probably in the hope that her death would be charged to a hit and run driver.

The woman was attractive. She was between 25 and 30 years old; about 5 feet 6 inches tall, and weighed 160 pounds. Her dark, curly brown hair was long bobbed. Her eyes were blue. She carried an appendectomy scar and her upper teeth were false.

Her lightweight coat was black with the trademark "Himalaya." She wore a dark blue dress, with a pattern of daisy flowers, a black patent leather belt, brown hose, and a pink slip. Pinned to the collar of the dress was a silver breast pin of two Scotty dogs with green eyes.

Two Women Recognize Her.

An approach to her identity was made last night when two women, one of them Mary Whitmore Brown, 1149 Washington boulevard, said they believed her first name was Alice, and that she lived somewhere in the neighborhood. They didn't know her last name. The name Alice, accordingly, went into the official, incompleted record of the case.

Alice, the women said, had been seen in restaurants along Madison street in the company of a tall, dark man. Alice had referred to him as Clem. Police are searching for him.

Just what caused Alice's death has not been determined. It may have been a heart attack. It may have been an overdose of sleep inducing medicine. There were no exterior signs about the mouth of a corrosive poison.

POLICE RAID GRID GAME IN APARTMENT; RULE TWO OFFSIDE

Frank Johnson of 1148 Altgeld street was born in Minnesota. Hjalmar Lane of 901 Altgeld street came from Wisconsin. Both are in their thirties and ought to know better. But they reconstructed the Minnesota-Wisconsin football game as they conceived it, from the radio reports, in the Johnson home last night.

Johnson used a vase to demonstrate a forward pass. It missed Lane and shattered against the wall. Lane tried a lamp and it bounded off Johnson's head. Then they charged each other and came to a deadlock.

About the time the first quarter was over three policemen arrived in the wrecked flat and declared both men offside. They were taken to jail and locked in separate cells.

Svelte Turkeys to Cook Goose of Big Gobbler

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

(Picture on page 2.)

Four hundred streamlined turkeys, bred and fed in government experimental stations at Beltsville, Md., will be carved in Thanksgiving dinner table tests. The birds were produced by federal poultry breeding experts in their effort to get a holiday bird that would meet the demands of consumers who have small families.

The new bird is comparable to the "baby beef" developed several years ago by cattle breeders so that housewives could have tender, well-marbled roasts and steaks that would fit the undersized pans and skillets of the modern oven.

Weighs Only Half as Much.

The streamlined turkey from Beltsville weighs about half as much as the old type gobbler that made pioneer tables groan. It tips the scales at 12 to 15 pounds live weight instead of the 18 to 20 pounds often reached by the big birds.

The government's 1938 model gobbler has shorter legs, a broader back and a plumper body instead of the big frame of the traditional holiday bird which sprang from the wild turkey during the last few centuries.

Turkey is as popular as ever for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners. Between 17 and 18 million turkeys are consumed annually in this country. But the demand for the giant gobblers is decreasing. Smaller birds meet the needs of the average city consumer.

Supply That Wild Taste.

With wild game birds no longer available on the market, the slightly gamey taste of the turkey is increasingly popular. Four expert tasters of the federal department of agriculture in Washington have been sitting around a table sampling the small sized turkeys raised at Beltsville station. They have made it a serious business to determine the quality and taste of the new birds and compare them with the old type birds. They eat the cooked turkeys without using either salt or pepper.

The new small bird has not yet been produced in large enough quantities to be on the market. Only enough were raised this year for "tasting."

Briton's Daring Trip to Carry Off Wife Foiled

MOSCOW, Nov. 20.—(AP)—An unauthorized nonstop flight for love by Bryan Grover, a British engineer, into soviet Russia, has landed him in jail.

Dotted line shows route of love flyer.

Grover, it was disclosed today, started his daring flight from Stockholm last Sunday after trying for more than a year to get his Russian born wife out of the country.

He landed the next day at Staritsa, 100 miles short of Moscow, his goal. He had flown 650 miles. He was believed to have landed because of fuel shortage. He was without even an entry visa for himself or an exit visa for his wife.

Take Away His Plane.

Soon after landing Grover was taken into custody by police and his old sports plane, carrying the identification marks S-Asum, was seized.

His friends said he knew that his desperate attempt to enter Russia without permission would land him in jail, or worse. They said that he hoped nevertheless to use this method of attracting attention of high soviet officials in his determination to join his wife.

Grover, who is 36 years old, was a foreign specialist in the soviet oil industry several years ago when he fell in love with the Russian girl and they were married in Moscow.

Plea for Entry Denied.

Later he went to Iran [Persia] on business, planning to return to Moscow to join his wife and return to England with her. But his application for a reëntry visa into the soviet union was not granted.

The case was complicated by the fact that they were married under Russian law, which does not recognize marriage to a foreigner as establishing the right of a Russian woman to leave the country.

The Briton then tried to get permission for his wife to leave the country, but failed.

Russian wives have been a problem for many foreigners—including Americans—who came here in relatively liberal times. For a while soviet authorities permitted foreigners to secure exit visas for Russian wives on the payment of about $1,000. When the soviet union no longer suffered from foreign exchange difficulties it dropped this practice, and many foreigners who have since left the country were forced to leave their families behind.

92, HE KILLS 30 SQUIRRELS; WINS THE ICE CREAM

Rochester, Ind., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Henry M. Pownall, 92 years old, has killed thirty squirrels in the sixty day season just closed. He uses an old single barrel shotgun, which he says shoots truer than modern firearms.

Pownall has good eyesight. When he reads he wears a pair of spectacles which he bought twenty-eight years ago for 25 cents. To bag the thirty squirrels he went into the woods every day during the season, returning home when he heard the dinner bell at noon [yes, noon!], and then going back into the woods until nightfall.

He won a double dish of ice cream on a wager with his old friend and neighbor, Alpheus Murphy, who is ten years his junior, on which one would kill the most squirrels this season. Murphy killed fourteen. Pownall attributes his long life to the fact that he has always been an active Republican.

Expect Snow to Fly in Chicago Tomorrow

It will be cloudy and warmer in Chicago today. But tomorrow is expected to be different, with the temperature much lower and with snow flying. A storm was centered last night over northwestern Nebraska and its eastward movement is to bring the snow.

DIES DEMANDS REDS BE FIRED FROM U. S. JOBS

Names Labor Board Adviser as One.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Congressman Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, tonight demanded that communists and their sympathizers be fired from the government service. Dies named David Saposs, chief economist for the National Labor Relations board, and Paul Sifton, assistant to the United States wage administrator, as two highly placed radicals who write and talk against the government.

David Saposs [top] and Paul Sifton.

Dies told about an article Saposs wrote for Labor Age in December, 1931, and an article Sifton wrote for Free, a publication of the Red Front League Against War and Fascism. Saposs' article advocated use of organized force against the government if political action failed, and Sifton attacked private ownership of business and property.

Draws $6,500 a Year.

Dies said that Saposs, whose government salary is $6,500 a year, is proved by his writings to be a communist.

"Every man in the government who expresses disgust with our form of government should be ousted," Dies said. "These men eagerly accept handsome salaries from the government which they are in favor of overthrowing. No man should be permitted to live at the expense of a government which he wishes to destroy."

Dies told of conducting secret hearings at which government employés testified and said many radicals and communist sympathizers are high in the ranks of the Roosevelt administration.

Testify Secretly to Save Jobs.

"Government officials testified at these secret hearings," Dies said. "I have been doing this to protect those officials, loyal to the government, from the revenge which the administration would visit upon them if their names were to become known.

"These witnesses have disclosed an alarming state of affairs in our executive departments. They have confirmed what the committee already has discovered—that there is a sizeable group of men and women holding responsible positions within our government who are disseminating propaganda against the government. They are enemies of the United States and they work against our democracy while receiving their income from the administration."

Since its formation, the labor board for which Saposs directs the policy of industrial economy has been under attack by the American Federation of Labor and by employers for its pro-C. I. O. leanings in labor disputes.

Reveals C. I. O. Ruled by Reds.

The Dies committee investigation has presented evidence showing the C. I. O. to be dominated by communist party workers who are the principal lieutenants of John L. Lewis and his chief advisers.

"The viewpoint of the labor board is not surprising when it is realized that its chief adviser is a man who talks of organized force as essential in establishing the Socialist state," Dies said. "The C. I. O. has been exposed as swarming with communists. In their program for destruction of the American government, these communists in the C. I. O. have had the invaluable assistance of the National Labor Relations board."

Teacher of Agitators.

When Saposs wrote his article advocating organized force against the government, the Labor Age described him as a member of the faculty of Brookwood labor college, a training school for labor agitators. Many Brookwood graduates were found among leaders of C. I. O. violence and sitdown strikes which disrupted industry throughout the country last year.

Brookwood college was founded in Katonah, N. Y., in 1921. For eight years it was supported by labor organizations and through gifts from friends of labor. The American Federation of Labor withdrew its support in 1929 because communism was being taught.

Besides teaching in Brookwood college, Saposs formerly was a director of the League for Industrial Democracy, a Socialist organization, at the time it was headed by Robert Morss Lovett of the University of Chicago. Saposs also was an instructor in the Rand School of Social Science, a Socialist training center in New York.

Saposs' advocacy of force against government was written shortly after he had returned from Europe, where he had attended the fourth congress of the Labor and Socialist International in Vienna. He found the views of delegates too mild and declared their attitude fallacious.

"The Socialist movement must tell the people that capitalism cannot be stabilized and that the world cannot be saved by capitalistic devices," Saposs wrote.

"Democracy Not Worth Saving."

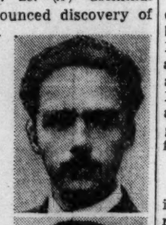
"But bourgeois democracy is a sham. When it is evident that Socialism is the only remedy it is not worth saving a democracy in which Socialist parties only collaborate with capitalism.

"If in the attempt to carry out such a program political action fails, then the workers unhesitatingly must resort to organized force. The international must take the position that if another war occurs the workers will destroy capitalism. With that end in view the worker must be prepared to stretch arms across the frontiers in case of war and definitly win power for themselves."

Tonight Saposs denied that the Labor Age article expressed his own views. He said he attended the Vienna congress to make a study for the Social Science Research council and added that the statements attributed to him actually were his quotation of the views of British left wingers.

NAZIS DISCOVER THEFT OF PUBLIC FUNDS IN AUSTRIA

VIENNA, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Criminal police today announced discovery of "large scale embezzlements" through which they charged Archduke Otto of Hapsburg received $4,000 a month from the government of former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.



Archduke Otto [top] and Count Coudenhove-Kalergi.

The police asserted the cash was sent to Archduke Otto, pretender to the nonexistent throne of Austria, now living in exile in Belgium.

They charged that other prominent persons who received money included Count Richard Coudenhove-Kalergi, president of the pan-European union; Benjamin Schier, who administered the funds; Edward Ludwig, former chief of the press department, and Wilhelm Klastersky, secretary to former President Wilhelm Miklas.

Count Coudenhove-Kalergi is not in Greater Germany, but most of the others named in the police charges have been under arrest since the Nazis assumed power in Austria last March. Police said ten persons involved had been arrested. These presumably were additional to men who have been under detention since last March.

JEWISH REFUGEES WARNED TO STAY OUT OF ALASKA

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Fairbanks Daily News-Miner said today the majority of Alaskans oppose a proposal to colonize the territory with Jewish immigrants. Prospective settlers were warned not to come to the far north unless they had ample means of support. The paper said Alaskans believed Jewish refugees would become misfits in Alaska's basic industries.

The chamber of commerce said Alaska did not need tradesmen, but miners, fishermen, and others "who are able to develop natural resources. Scandinavians and other hardier types of peoples are preferable." Territorial senators and representatives termed the refugee plans "not feasible."

Lower California Shuts Door.

MEXICALI, Lower California, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Gov. Rodolfo S. Taboada of the northern territory of Lower California today said the proposal of a group of American Jews to establish a Jewish refugee settlement in his state was a "fantastic dream." "The Mexican government is not willing to cede or sell any parts of its national territory," he said.

GERMANS TRACK DOWN JEWS IN RAIDS ON ALIENS

Police Search Homes for Fugitives.

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Secret police today were reported to have searched homes of foreigners suspected of having harbored German Jews since the mass action against Jewry began ten days ago.

Several foreigners said their homes had been searched yesterday. They declared they were not told whether the police were hunting specific Jews who escaped their net or were attempting to discourage foreigners from taking them in. The foreigners said the secret police asked whether any Jews had slept there recently.

A French bachelor, who said he had befriended a Jew, declared he was noncommittal under questioning and his apartment was searched. Police found two beds had been occupied but did not get the Jew's name, he said.

Accost Jews on Street Cars.

Berlin police have given assurances no more arrests of Jews would be made but today there came a belated report of a raid carried out in Frankfort on the Main. Advices from Frankfort said Jews were accosted on street cars and in other public places and taken away.

The searchers were reported to have asked one question: "Are you Jewish?" When the reply was in the affirmative, they merely said: "Then come along."

Several Jews, including Isaac Kupferstoch, chief rabbi in the eastern section of Berlin, have been arrested for practicing forbidden kosher slaughtering.

Activities of the Jewish cultural society are to start again Tuesday after being banned since the death of Ernst von Rath Nov. 9. Von Rath, a German diplomat, was shot by a Polish Jew in Paris. Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels announced Nov. 12 that Jewish organizations would be permitted to function again.

Free Theatrical Producer.

On his orders, Fritz Wisten, leading Jewish theatrical producer, was released last Thursday from the Sachsenhausen concentration camp. He was told he had five days to begin showing the comedy "Rain and Wind," taken from Shakespeare, in the sole Jewish theater.

Jews complained that their community, with thousands arrested, was in no mood for comedy and furthermore that all Jewish newspapers through which they could advertise the forthcoming play were prohibited.

Permission then was granted for the newspaper Jüdische Rundschau to resume publication Tuesday, but without news and advertisments—only for announcements interesting the Jewish community.

Along with the reopening of the theater, a Jewish vaudeville troupe is to begin working Nov. 26, also on government orders. It will play a farce called "Stewed Fruit." Lectures, newspapers, other than Jüdische Rundschau, and various Jewish community organizations still are forbidden.

Renews Attacks on Roosevelt.

The Boersenzeitung meanwhile renewed attacks on President Roosevelt in the Nazi controled press, calling him the "prototype" of the anti-German wave arising from the Nazi campaign against Jews.

The publication asked why the President's "so-called conscience" did not trouble him over the burning of churches in Spain.

"That does not interest Herr Roosevelt," it declared. "That leaves him cold. So Herr Roosevelt stands as the prototype of the anti-German movement.

"This movement is not motivated, as it makes believe, by a policy concerned with justice and humanity, but it is motivated by absolute selfishness."

The editorial declared such a movement destroys progress toward peace.

Refers to Ejection of Mormons.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's own newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, published what it called a history of the ejection of Mormons from the states of Missouri and Illinois, describing it as an "American parallel to the Jewish problem in Germany."

The article was entitled "State Within a State." It carried an introductory paragraph designed to recall to the memory of "fair minded Americans" a "staggering parallel from the history of 'God's own land'" in the interest of a "better understanding of the Jewish question in Germany."

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's National Zeitung of Essen again spoke of "hysterical reaction" abroad against an act of Germany which concerned only Germany.

Seek to End Indignation.

The National Zeitung said "nothing will be changed in the German measures" against the Jews, but the tone of responsible comment generally was milder than it has been.

This was interpreted as a call to halt anti-German sentiments which have been expressed throughout the world especially in the Anglo-Saxon countries.

Adverse effects on Germany's foreign trade are known to have been felt in the last ten days, as well as the reaction in the political field.

Officials directly concerned with fostering trade were said to have obtained a guarantee from Nazi party leaders that Jews actively engaged in the export business be permitted to continue, at least for the time being. The feeling was expressed that their relations abroad were too valuable to dispense with at the moment.

BISHOP DEFIES NAZIS; PROCLAIMS RIGHT TO INSTRUCT CHILDREN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—"The concordat gave Catholic parents in Germany the right to send their children to Catholic schools," Bishop Konrad von Preysing said in a pastoral letter which was read in Berlin's Roman Catholic churches today. The letter was the bishop's reply to a paper which Catholic parents have been told to sign. It is a pledge to send their children to public schools. Bishop Von Preysing warned parents it is their duty to stand on their rights as outlined in the concordat.

[The concordat between Germany and the Vatican was initialed at Vatican City on July 8, 1933. It covers all relations between the Vatican and the Nazi government, particularly the education of Catholic youth and the right to organize and operate church and lay groups.]

PARIS IS HOST TO KING CAROL; IGNORES MAGDA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Paris, now host to King Carol of Rumania and Crown Prince Michael, learned today that it also has as a guest red haired Magda Lupescu for whose sake Carol once renounced his right to the throne and accepted romantic exile in France.

The king today sent roses to her apartment in the Hotel Meurice where he and his son also are staying. The duke and duchess of Windsor are living there temporarily, too.

Since Carol resumed his title he has never been seen with Mme. Lupescu in public and her arrival here has been discreetly ignored by the press. However, her presence is considered significant in regard to the future course of Rumanian policy which Carol has been discussing in London, Brussels, and Paris. It is taken to indicate that Rumania, despite pressure from its Nazi groups as well as from Germany, will continue to oppose expansion of Germany in eastern Europe.

Mme. Lupescu is part Jewish. She also is partisan to coöperation with the western democracies. So long as her king and commoner romance with Carol lasts, French observers say, it is difficult to see how the Nazi ideology can sweep Rumania.

Nazi Air Emissary Makes Mystery Flight to London

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The purpose of his visit a closely guarded secret, Maj. Gen. Karl Bodenschatz, right hand man to Hermann Wilhelm Goering in Germany's air ministry, landed at Croydon in a German air ministry plane today. A section of the London press attached significance to the fact that his visit was only three days before Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Halifax leave for Paris.

DOMINGO DICKERS WITH HITLER ON JEWISH REFUGEES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—Roberto Despradel, minister of the Dominican republic, left Berlin tonight for Munich, where he is expected to discuss with Reichsfuehrer Hitler a possible agreement regarding Jewish immigration into the Dominican republic. The minister is expected to return to Berlin Tuesday. Germany was reported to be willing to grant economic advantages to Central and South American nations which will accept Jewish refugees.

8 Die as False Fire Alarm Starts Stampede in Show

FRANCO BATTLES TO CRUSH SECOND LOYALIST POCKET

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier], Nov. 20.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco apparently has turned his forces against the government's Segre river salient.

Arrow locates loyalist salient attacked by rebels.

Troops, tanks, and planes have swung into action against the lines which the government formed on the west bank of the Segre in a surprise push Nov. 7. The rebel objective evidently was to force government troops back to the east bank.

Government positions now are a threat to rebel communications between Fraga and Lerida, a vital sector in the Catalonia campaign.

The new rebel offensive apparently faced resistance as strong as that in the Ebro valley where government forces held against repeated attacks for almost four months.

Government defenses were believed to have been weakened seriously by the devastating fire which raged Thursday and Friday in a munitions plant at Hospitalet, outside Barcelona.

ANTI-DICTATOR FRONT FORMED BY ROOSEVELT

Seeks to Align Americas Against 3 Powers.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, according to information emanating from administration sources, is definitly embarked upon a policy of warfare on the European and Asiatic dictatorships. American foreign and domestic policies are being shaped toward defense of the democracies from economic and, perhaps, military attack by Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy, and imperialist Japan.

Communist Russia is not included in the aggregation of dictatorships envisaged by the administration as the menace of the democracies. Although the Russian soviets are committed by doctrin to the overthrow of the American and other democratic forms of government by violence, there is far more danger from the encroachments of the other brand of dictatorships, particularly the German, according to the administration viewpoint.

Chicago Speech Stirs World.

The President electrified the world last year by bidding for the leadership of the democracies in warfare on the dictatorships in his Chicago bridge speech in which he advocated a concerted international quarantine of aggressor nations.

He never again mentioned that proposal, chiefly, it was assumed, because of the adverse popular reaction, indicating that the American people were not disposed to engage in operations to police the world. Also the British government ran out on him by making terms with Dictator Mussolini and later surrendering to Dictator Hitler.

Mr. Roosevelt identified himself with the surrender of Czechoslovakia to Hitler by his appeal to the Fuehrer to forego force in taking the Sudeten territory and afterward claimed credit for averting a European war.

Now the President has returned to the fray. To manifest his displeasure at the persecution of German Jews and Roman Catholics, Mr. Roosevelt summoned American Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson back from Berlin and in an unprecedented utterance for the head of a state denounced the German government.

Arms Demand Strengthened.

The President's present policy, according to administration interpreters, is essentially the same as that he enunciated in his Chicago speech. He regards his desertion by the British as only temporary. It is believed that when the British have effected rearmament they will take a stronger stand alongside America against the dictatorships.

The popular revulsion against the persecution of the Jews and Catholics in Germany is strengthening the President's demand for a vast increase of armament to keep this hemisphere free of encroachment by the dictatorships. And the increase of armament will set myriads of factories humming and will reduce the relief rolls.

By the end of this year it is expected that more than eighty ships for the navy—including six battleships, two aircraft carriers, six cruisers, sixty destroyers, and sixteen submarines—will be under construction in government and private yards.

Cost Would Top 3 Billion.

On top of this will come construction to be provided for in the regular 1940 fiscal year appropriation bill and, unless there is improvement in the world conditions, probably a third vast authorization program involving the building of an Atlantic fleet.

Such a fleet would comprise twelve battleships, six aircraft carriers, seventeen heavy and eighteen light cruisers, seventy-seven destroyers, and thirty-six submarines.

The completed cost of this armada is estimated at 2 billion 800 million dollars. Such a fleet would require fifty-six auxiliary vessels to cost 400 million dollars, increasing the cost to 3 billion 200 million dollars.

In addition to all this the private shipbuilding yards will have under way at the beginning of the new year more than fifty merchant vessels, all of them carrying a large federal investment and all built to specifications approved by the naval bureau of construction and repair.

Not only against Germany but against Japan has the President taken an aggressive stand. He has remonstrated with Japan for closing the open door in Japanese occupied China, and Japan has rebuffed him.

The President has set out to enlist the support of the other American nations in the warfare on the dictatorships. He sought to win Canada in his Kingston speech, in which he said the United States never would stand idly by while Canada is threatened by an aggressor. The support of the Latin American republics is to be courted in the Pan-American conference at Lima next month.

Lady, can you milk a cow? If you can milk one fast please see A. E. Albaugh, secretary of the Agricultural Club of Chicago, in the Great Northern hotel today or tomorrow.

Mr. Albaugh is gathering a team. Illinois and Wisconsin squads of four milkmaids each are to fight to the last drop in a milking contest on Nov. 28. The preliminaries for the Chicago candidates are to be held Wednesday. Applicants for the varsity squad must report in person.

BLASTS DAMAGE POWER PLANT; 7 TOWNS DARKENED

Joplin, Mo., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Joplin and six other southwest Missouri towns were darkened early today when two explosions damaged an Empire District Electric company substation.

Ed Portley, chief of detectives, said the blasts were caused by dynamite and that he believed labor trouble was responsible.

Mrs. W. O. Barrett, whose home was set on fire by blazing oil that showered from the building, said she saw three men running from the substation a few minutes before the explosions. Persons in the neighborhood ran into the streets in panic.

James E. Harsh, general manager of the electric company, said: "For some time we have been carrying on negotiations with union representatives who seek to represent our employés."

HITLER AND DUCE JAR CHAMBERLAIN POLICY OF PEACE

Britain Fears Isolation by Political Trickery.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's government is facing a critical week at home and in foreign affairs. With the Germans trying to reach some non-aggression agreement with France on the eve of a visit to Paris by Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, the British tonight expressed fears there is danger of England being completely isolated unless some change in the political currents can be effected.

The wizards of the Rome-Berlin axis seem to have confused the British and French by their wily tactics. While the Germans are making eyes at the French and abusing the British, Premier Mussolini is doing just the opposite, probably through an understanding with Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Air Jewish Problem Today.

Tomorrow the problem of finding places to settle Jewish refugees from Germany will be aired in the house of commons. It is expected that Chamberlain will make a statement with a debate following. Because Chamberlain does not want to come to grips with Hitler over the Jewish question, some other minister, probably Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare, may speak for the government.

Jewish organizations in London and Palestine are urging the British government to increase the immigration quota to allow 10,000 German Jewish children to go to Palestine. They also are asking Britain to absorb 1,000 Jewish children from Germany.

Chamberlain has been consulting Earl Winterton, chairman of the inter-governmental refugee committee, on the question of a mass exodus of Jews from Germany. It was indicated, however, that government spokesmen tomorrow will plead for more time for discussions with other powers before any refugee scheme is framed.

Hitler Dislikes Staf Talk.

The reactions to persecutions of Jews in Germany and their effect on world affairs generally are expected to be upsetting to the British and French consultations in Paris on Wednesday and Thursday. The parley, which originally was planned to carry out the policy to pacify dictators, will be limited in its scope, it is said. Some quarters suggested that the British cabinet has urged Chamberlain to soft pedal the colonial and other aspects of the appeasement program until Germany's abuse toward Britain dies down.

Hitler, some said, has informed the British and the French that he disapproves of their military staf talks.

Others intimated that Chamberlain will seek to regain some of the prestige he has lost at home. Even if nothing comes of the meeting, a round of cheers in Paris would help the prime minister in England.

Recent bye-elections have shown that Chamberlain is losing ground. Since the Munich peace agreement five bye-elections have been held in which 131,000 votes were cast against the government and 124,000 in favor of it, or a 7,000 majority against Chamberlain's policy.

This, of course, helps Capt. Anthony Eden, formerly foreign secretary, Winston Churchill and other recalcitrant Conservatives who do not approve of the prime minister's Munich policy.

Two men who entered the drug store at 3700 Armitage avenue yesterday said they had headaches. When they left, the proprietor, Sam Solomon, also had a headache; a $393 headache. The men ordered headache powders, mixed them with water, and after tasting them set down their glasses. "These are terrible," they shouted. Then they pulled out their pistols, took $193 in cash and $200 worth of cigars and liquor.

Politics in Relief Another South Dakota Factor.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—South Dakota's election, which gave a complete sweep to the Republican ticket, is analyzed here as an agrarian uprising against the Roosevelt-Wallace farm policies and politics in relief. With it went a reaction against communist indorsement of Democrats, labor troubles and the attitude toward sitdown strikes in outside cities, as well as the piling up of the debt load.

Chandler Gurney elected to senate.

Low farm prices demonstrating Wallace farm fallacies were one reason for the swing. After a series of bad drouth years, South Dakota slowly is climbing back. The black blizzard dust storm was five years ago on Armistice day.

Throughout the political campaign, the Wallace theory of planned scarcity was held up as an injurious nostrum. The argument was that it should be replaced with a planned distribution and encouragement of farm production—a theory of planned plenty.

G. O. P. Vs. "Rubber Stamps."

In this state it was a straight fight between Republicans and Democrats. The issue was the administration's policies, especially the farm program. The swing was such that the campaign saw Democratic candidates for congress shrieking that if sent to Washington, they would not be rubber stamps.

South Dakota is a progressive state. Normally it is Republican, but not hardshell. It went to Theodore Roosevelt in the 1912 Bull Moose year and to President Roosevelt in the last two presidential elections. At times it has been somewhat radical.

Two decades ago, under Republican government, it went in for a series of socialistic experiments—an overflow from the Non-Partisan league activities in North Dakota.

Vast sums have been poured into this state for relief of various sorts. All this background is deemed to make the swing of this agricultural state back to the Republican party especially significant.

Sweep Dates Back Two Years.

In the election it was a sweep. It really started two years ago when the Republicans elected a governor, lieutenant governor, a congressman, and a legislative majority.

In the recent election Republicans won the state offices, from Gov. Elect Harlan J. Bushfield down. They elected Chandler Gurney for full term United States senator, succeeding Miss Gladys Pyle who was elected for a short term to fill a vacancy ending next January. Karl E. Mundt and Francis Case went over as the state's two congressmen. In a majority of the counties, Republican officials were elected.

In the next legislature the Republicans get a top heavy majority. They will have thirty to thirty-five state senators and sixty-two out of seventy-five members of the house.

After the first of the year the Democratic party of South Dakota will be represented solely by Senator W. J. Bulow. He opposed the Roosevelt Supreme court packing bill.

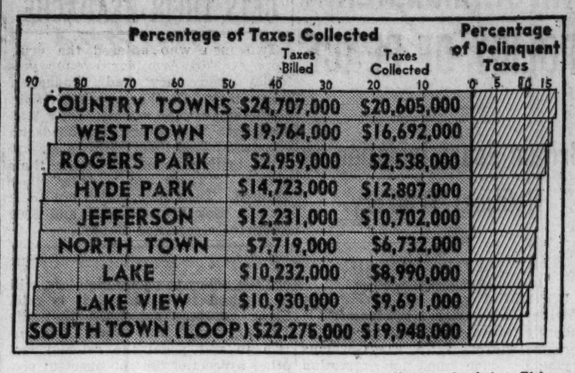
One lesson in the results was that the election could not be won on relief. South Dakota, due to drouth troubles, has been a conspicuous beneficiary of government assistance of one sort and another. The Democratic high command at Washington sought to capitalize all this in an effort to swing the votes through the alphabetical agencies.

This year these activities were a boomerang.

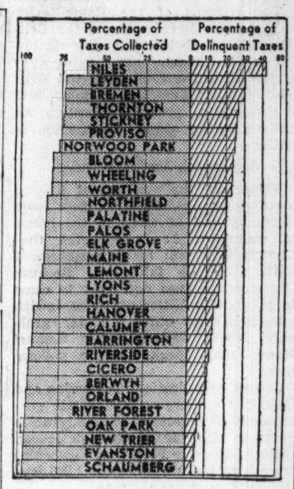
The general view was that the government was getting down to the bottom of the barrel, so apparently they voted in protest against extravagance and experimentation that was piling up the national debt to tremendous heights while farm prices had moved in the opposite direction.

Rank Townships on Tax Payment

(Story in adjoining column.)



Realty tax payment and delinquency standings of eight Chicago townships compared with average of country towns. These figures are for 1934 taxes, the latest included in survey just completed by Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer. Property deterioration has caused large delinquency in West Town, which is the west side.



Collections and delinquencies on 1934 realty taxes in each of the 30 Cook county townships outside of Chicago.

TAX DELINQUENCY SURVEY SHOWS WEAKEST AREAS

Problem Exists in Vacant Subdivision Land.

A comprehensive survey of real estate tax delinquency will be submitted to the county board today by Horace G. Lindheimer, county treasurer. Lindheimer said he hopes the survey, which shows tax collections over a seven year period in each of the thirty-eight townships in the county, will be the basis for further study and the solution of the delinquency problem.

Lindheimer's survey covers collections for each of seven tax years, 1928 to 1934, inclusive. It records the amount of taxes billed, the amount abated by the courts on objections of taxpayers, how much has been collected and the amount of delinquency.

The survey shows, according to Lindheimer, that in outlying townships containing large amounts of vacant subdivision land, a serious problem exists.

The delinquency in vacant subdivisions is one of the problems now being studied by civic groups working on tax reform. In many cases, it has been found, owners have dropped all efforts to meet the tax bills, because the accumulated tax debt is in excess of the market value of the property.

Former G-Man Commits Suicide by Shooting Self

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 20.—(AP)—John M. Keith, 43 years old, former head of the Washington field office of the federal bureau of investigation, was found shot through the head yesterday in his suburban Philadelphia home. Mrs. Keith, hearing the shot, found him wounded in bed, his pistol by his side. He died a short time later. Coroner W. J. Rushong said Keith committed suicide, apparently because of ill health.

tions. Its negative findings are frequently of value as showing that a suspect is telling the truth.

Most of the tests made in the laboratory may, however, be used in court as evidence. There are six laboratories in addition to that for the polygraph. They are equipped for chemical analyses, microscopy, firearms identification, and ballistics tests, ultraviolet ray examinations, photography, including micro-photography, and the making and repair of electrical and electronic devices.

Fingerprint evidence is handled by the police bureau of identification, but the laboratory has special equipment for bringing out latent prints. This laboratory, using methods developed by Edwin O'Neill, a member of the present staf, has been successful in developing finger prints on letters and documents. O'Neill also has developed a new method for restoring obliterated writing.

The microscope and microphotography are extensively used in the laboratory. In one case, a mine bombing in southern Illinois, Charles M. Wilson of the laboratory staf used the microscope and micrometer to provide the most important evidence used in obtaining a conviction.

Authorities recovered a piece of copper sheathed steel wire used in the electrical timing device on the bomb. In the home workshop of two suspects they found a similar piece of wire. With microphotographs which showed the internal shape of the steel core, and the tiny irregularities left on the copper surface by the drawing die, Wilson convinced the jury that the piece of wire from the bomb and that found in the suspects' shop had originally been a single piece.

HORNER NAMES JOHN E. CASSIDY FOR KERNER JOB

Peoria Lawyer to Become Attorney General.

Formal announcement was made by Gov. Horner's office in Springfield last night that John E. Cassidy, a Peoria lawyer, will be appointed attorney general of the state to succeed Attorney General Otto Kerner as soon as the latter resigns to accept his appointment as a justice of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Kerner's commission, it is expected, will be brought to Chicago today by Joseph B. Keenan, assistant to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. Keenan also will bring the commissions of United States District Attorney Michael L. Igoe as a judge of the federal district court, and of William J. Campbell as district attorney to succeed Igoe.

Plan No Special Ceremony.

Kerner will be sworn in at the new home of the appeals court at 1212 Lake Shore drive as soon as he receives his commission. The oath will be administered by Clerk Frederick G. Campbell. There will be no special ceremony. Flowers will not be permitted, it was said. Because of important prosecutions still unfinished, Igoe may defer taking judicial office, in which case the induction of his successor also will be deferred.

Cassidy, designated as the state's new attorney general, was little known outside Peoria until a few years ago, when he was appointed Illinois compliance director of the National Recovery administration and the National Emergency council. He resigned in September, 1934, after eight months of service. In 1936 he sought the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor as running mate of Gov. Horner, but lost.

Educated at Notre Dame.

Cassidy, although only 42 years old, is one of Peoria's most successful lawyers. His private law business was one of the reasons for his resigning from the old NRA post. He was born in Ottawa, Ill., and educated at Notre Dame university. He was admitted to the bar shortly after the United States entered the world war. He delayed starting his legal practice to enter the military service. He was commissioned a lieutenant and served with the 101st machine gun company, 26th division, in France.

After the war Cassidy worked in Chicago as an insurance attorney and then began private practice in Peoria. He was a delegate to the Democratic national convention in 1932 and a wet delegate at large to the state convention in Springfield a year later to act on repeal of the federal prohibition amendment. He is a member of the American Legion, the Peoria Bar association, and the Knights of Columbus. He is married and father of six children.

Gets Movie Chance

DOROTHY QUACKENBUSH.

Most girls who want to become air line hostesses have an idea that some time they may be seen by a Hollywood motion picture executive who will offer them the chance to star in the films. This chance came yesterday to Miss Dorothy Quackenbush, 22 years old, of Kansas City.

But no executive spotted her about her duties. She wasn't even on a transcontinental plane. She won the "Miss American Aviation of 1938" contest at Birmingham, Ala., last spring. She will play in Odessco Pictures, a subsidiary of Paramount.

WILMETTE GIRL, 14, SHOT BY CHUM IN PARTY PRANK

Two boys and two girls, all freshmen students at New Trier High school, gathered Saturday evening in the home of George A. Scheibel, 129 5th street, Wilmette.

The party was a gay one. Duke Lynch, 14 years old, 505 Maple avenue, Wilmette, took the lead in the merrymaking when he found a .25 caliber pistol belonging to a brother of Jeanne Scheibel, also 14. He snapped the trigger a couple of times. The weapon appeared to be unloaded, so he pointed it toward Jeanne.

Duke pulled the trigger again. A bullet struck the girl in the cheek. At the Evanston hospital yesterday it was said the wound was not serious. The other students who witnessed the accident are Nancy Hillis, 906 Greenwood avenue, and William Meisner, 204 9th street, Wilmette.

Carries Teeth in Pocket; Thief Gets Them and Cash

Clyde Secrest, 2629 Gladys avenue, learned last night that the safest place for false teeth is the mouth. His new teeth hurt him a little when he went into a restaurant at Madison and Halsted streets, so he put them into an overcoat pocket and hung the coat on a hook. A thief took the plate out of the pocket and also Secrest's wallet containing $47. "But I don't care about the money," complained Secrest. "It's the teeth; I was just getting used to them."

TAVERN OWNER ROBBED.

Albert Schurr, 2739 Nelson street, was robbed of $50 last night in his tavern at 2200 Roscoe street by an armed bandit.

STOCKYARD BOYS HONOR OLD IDOL, GEORGE M. COHAN

Mayor Tells How Actor Aided Youth of '90s.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Nearly forty years ago the Irish boys back of Chicago's stockyards had a dance they loved. It was a shuffle, head thrown back, index finger of the right hand outthrust. Any boy who couldn't master it was tossed out of the gang.

The man who originated that dance was an Irishman, a thin, young Irishman with a wide, smiling mouth, a lilting voice, and agile feet. His name was George M. Cohan. He wasn't much of an actor. Just a singing, dancing Irishman who on his visits to Chicago from his home in the east managed to pack the 10 cent gallery seats with Irish boys wide eyed with adoration.

Honor Their Hero of '90s.

Last night the Irish boys of 40 years ago, led by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, gathered at the Chicago Athletic club. In the seat of honor was their idol of the '90s, here for his production of "I'd Rather Be Right."

Many of those Irish boys have white hair now. Others have hair streaked with gray. But the hair of their idol, too, has turned. Many of their faces are furrowed and lined. But so is the face of their idol.

It made for a strange evening. Many of the Irish boys had expected an evening of rare humor. George M., as George Michael Cohan is known to his intimate friends, is SUCH a funny man.

But last night stray tears trickled down the rosy cheeks of the dancing Irishman, still thin, still thin lipped, still jerking his index finger. There were tears in the eyes of his Irish boys, too.

Mayor Old Stockyards Boy.

The tears came after Mayor Kelly's introduction. The mayor was one of the stockyards boys who sat in the Olympic gallery at 10 cents a seat to see "The Four Cohans" more than forty years ago.

"We idolized you," he told Cohan. "You did a lot to bring up the morale of the kids of the neighborhood."

"Of course," he added, "this show that brings you here now is a little bit off color as far as I am concerned. I am a great admirer of the man you propose to be." [Mr. Cohan's play, in which he personifies President Roosevelt, satirizes the New Deal.]

"It's a long jump from the days you played in 'Daniel Boone' at the age of 9. I suppose you were boondoggling in those days and are still doing it," the mayor added gaily, "but we want you to know we came here tonight because we love you, for what you are, and for what you have done for us."

Then George M. arose, his face stern and rather sad.

Trouping for Half Century.

The first time he saw the name Cohan at the head of a bill, he told them, was at Chicago's old Haymarket theater, "well over forty years ago." His first highly successful play, "45 Minutes from Broadway," had its first run of note at the Colonial theater, formerly the Iroquois, in 1905. His first musical show success was at the Great Northern. The first theater he ever controled was the Grand Opera house.

"This is my fifty-first year as a trouper," he told them. "I'm still what I was when I started, just a song and dance man. But I've learned one thing—the only thing—and that is to put the proper value on friendship."

He concluded with the poem he wrote when 20. It was all about life, "young for a day, then old and gray . . . everything's a guess, there's nothing absolutely sure . . . until the curtain's fall. . . . Life's a very funny proposition after all."

With that he sat down, quickly. But most of his Irish boys were humming "Life's a Funny Proposition." After all, it had been their favorite song forty years ago.

RESCUE 2 MINERS TRAPPED IN COAL SHAFT 40 HOURS

Shenandoah, Pa., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Two miners were rescued today from a coal shaft in which collapsing timbers had imprisoned them for 40 hours 50 feet below the surface. The two are William Bokuniewicz, 53 years old, father of eleven children, who has been trapped on two other occasions, and Joseph Cominsky, 18 years old.

Physicians said both were suffering from shock but were in fair condition. Fellow miners at first feared both were dead when flimsy timbers of their mine gave way at 3 p. m. Friday, but rescue efforts were redoubled yesterday when faint tappings were heard through the rock.

Digging a new shaft rescurers after back breaking toil found the trapped miners and carried them out.

YALE PRESIDENT ANSWERS LAW SCHOOL CRITICS

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—President Charles Seymour of Yale university, in his annual report released today, discussed a criticism of the Yale law school faculty which, he said, labels it as radical and implies that its teachings are corrupting youth.

"If the criticism implies that the teaching courses are made vehicles of social and political propaganda," he said, "or that the legal issues covered by the various courses in the curriculum are unfairly presented, there is no foundation for it.

"The law school takes no sides in controversial matters. In their private lives the faculty represent various shades of political opinion."

ROOSEVELT OFF FOR 2 WEEK STAY AT GEORGIA SPA

Aboard Presidential Special, en route to Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight was en route to the little White House on Pine mountain for a two week vacation on the grounds of the infantile paralysis resort he founded at Warm Springs, Ga. He will arrive at Warm Springs at 9 p. m. tomorrow.

His train left Washington at 6 p. m. Chicago time. It is carrying him on a roundabout way so he can stop tomorrow at Chattanooga, Tenn., to inspect the Chickamauga TVA dam, now under construction, and visit several civil war battlefields. He will speak briefly at the dam.

On his return trip from Warm Springs he is scheduled to make an address Dec. 5 before the nonpartisan forum of the University of North Carolina. He will be back in the White House the next day.

Pastor Borrows Gun, Runs Car Thieves Into Blind Street

Macon, Ga., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Firing a borrowed pistol, the Rev. William Worth Williams, pastor of a Baptist church here, chased four car thieves into a ditch at the end of a blind street tonight. "My Bible and sermon notes were in it, and I was due to preach my evening service," he explained later. Williams' car was stolen from in front of the church and he pursued it in the car of a friend from whom he borrowed the pistol.

Will Your Future Bring BALDNESS OR HAIR?

YOU need not look into a "crystal ball" to learn if you are headed toward baldness. If your scalp itches, if it is laden with dandruff, and if your hair is falling abnormally—baldness is surely approaching.

Baldness warns you at the very beginning. Your hair becomes thin and scraggly at the temples, crown and frontal point. Disregard these warnings and you'll soon be bald. Heed them and consult a Thomas expert if you want to avoid baldness.

More than a quarter million other men who noticed their hair becoming thin consulted Thomas. They saved their hair—ended dandruff, stopped abnormal hairfall and actually re-grew hair on the thin and bald spots.

You, too, can have a good head of hair. Call today for a free scalp examination. The Thomas expert will tell you frankly what can be done in your particular case. If benefits are improbable—you will be told. No charge is made for consultation or complete scalp examination in a Thomas office.

JAPS CLOSE HAN RIVER IN CHINA TO FOREIGN SHIPS

Commerce Reserved for Invaders' Agents.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20. — (AP) — Japan today broadened her forcefully established monopoly of interior waterways of China.

Japanese military authorities in Hankow notified the United States and other consular officials that the Han river, great Yangtze tributary traversing Hupeh province, now was closed to navigation except upon "special permission" of the Japanese army.

This action augments Japan's armed possession of the Yangtze, China's principal navigable river, which she has closed to commercial navigation by other countries.

New Entry for Jap Goods.

"Military operations," the Japanese announcement in Hankow said, "necessitate that the Han be closed to all except the Japanese."

Foreign business men said the development added another exclusive avenue of entry for Japanese merchandise into an added huge interior region of China.

Japanese reports meanwhile indicated Japanese commercial exploitation of South China was following swiftly in the wake of military conquest. They said a "civilian expeditionary force" of Japanese business men arrived in Canton "armed with briefcases instead of rifles."

The Japanese air force reported continued heavy raids on southern and central Chinese points against military warehouses, troop concentrations, and anti-aircraft positions.

2,000 Perish in Fire.

Two thousand persons were reported to have perished in a five day fire which prematurely razed Changsha, capital of Hunan province, while Japanese met reverses in their advance on the central Chinese city.

Three Chinese officials charged with overhaste in setting the fires were said to have been executed on orders of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. At Chungking, China's provisional capital, government officials said that the fire started through accidents and "premature zeal" of local officials desiring to apply the "scorched earth" policy to prevent anything worth while remaining for the invaders.

Chinese army commanders reported that they were repulsing repeated Japanese attacks along the Yochow-Changsha railway, about forty miles north of Changsha.

New Foe for Japs

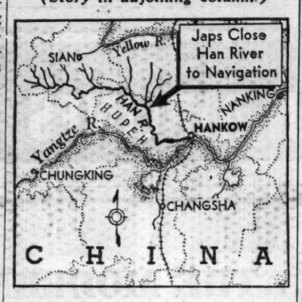
In addition to being on the watch for Chinese, this Japanese sentry, at Boca Tigris fort, near Canton, has to be prepared for poisonous mosquitoes.

Bar Foreign Ships

(Story in adjoining column.)



Japanese yesterday closed the Han river to all except Japanese shipping. Foreign vessels already were barred from the Yangtze.

CHARGES POLISH TERRORIST BANDS ENTER RUTHENIA

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Czech newspapers today openly charged Poland with arming terrorists and transporting them in military automobiles to the frontier for operations in Ruthenia, Czechoslovakia's easternmost province. They alleged that some terrorist leaders were "officers of the Polish army."

One Polish terrorist was reported to have been killed lsat night at Nizny Vereky in a skirmish with Czech guards. The official news agency yesterday said Polish and Hungarian bands had caused six deaths in the last few days in border skirmishes.

The press said "Budapest and Warsaw have not given up hope for a common frontier" by having Ruthenia joined to Hungary. There were reports that Germany had expressed to Hungary her displeasure with any efforts to stir up trouble in Ruthenia.

100 POLICEMEN AT STOCKYARDS AS STRIKE LOOMS

A special detail of 100 policemen was in readiness at the stockyards station early today following reports that a strike might be called at the yards by stock handlers. At 3 a. m. there was no evidence of an immediate strike. It was reported that the stock handlers met late last night and voted 236 to 235 against a strike.

The pro-strike vote was cast, it was said, by the handlers affiliated with the C. I. O. and the anti-strike by rival handlers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. There are about 600 handlers in the yards, almost evenly split between the two groups.

Company officials said they have not received official notification of strike intent. A strike at this time, it was said, probably would be meant to cripple the movement of cattle for the annual live stock show which opens Saturday. The C. I. O. unit has been demanding recognition as the sole bargaining agent, better pay, and vacations.

Boy Hunter Shot to Death as Companion Stumbles

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Thomas Nichols, 15 years old, was killed today when the charge of a shotgun in the hands of a hunting companion, Duane Eadler, also 15, struck him in the chest. Eadler told police he stumbled.

LOCKED IN ICE BOX BY BANDIT.

A robber locked Philip Harris in the ice box in the latter's fruit and vegetable store at 1000 East 55th street last night and then took $70 from the cash drawer.

JAPAN MUST RULE WESTERN PACIFIC, PRESS DECLARES

TOKIO, Nov. 20.—(AP)—An outspoken editorial in the newspaper Hochi declared today that the issue raised by the United States protest on Oct. 6 against discrimination in China lies not in China, but in ultimate domination of the entire western Pacific.

Determination of who finally will be "master of the western Pacific," the newspaper said, will be the "answer to this issue."

Hochi's statement reflects a view long held by the Japanese navy, which consistently has argued that control of Pacific ocean trade lanes is equally as important as control of areas on the Asiatic mainland.

Follows Tokio's Note.

The editorial followed Japan's note last Friday which denied the United States protest that American interests were suffering "unwaranted interference" in China.

The Japanese answer asserted that Japan was engaged in establishing a new order in Asia. This was interpreted as a virtual declaration that Tokio considered the 1922 nine power treaty obsolete.

The treaty, signed at Washington, D. C., pledged respect for China's territorial integrity and independence and the principle of the "open door" to trade.

Further Notes Futile.

Hochi saw the American protest as the latest manifestation of "American policy of the past forty years" and concluded that further exchanges of notes would be futile.

The newspaper Yomiuri expressed disappointment that Japan's reply had not stated openly the empire's intention to renounce the nine power treaty, Yomiuri said:

"The government's reply was too conservative. The treaty is a dead letter and its continuance is harmful. The government at the earliest occasion should make a clear cut expression in this direction."

BOROUGH CHIEF CALLS LAGUARDIA LEADER OF REDS

Passaic, N. J., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—New York is the center of communistic activity in the United States and Mayor F. H. La Guardia is head of that movement, George Harvey, president of Queens, one of the city's five boroughs, declared in an address here this afternoon. Harvey, who holds the congressional medal of honor for war heroism and who is national commander of the Legion of Valor, made his remark while urging a renewed spirit of patriotism.

ON THE DOING END

By CALEB

I HAVE JUST LAID aside a page that was like a loud voice speaking. Or a trumpet calling on clear, early-morning air—from a hilltop. A page of challenge. Words that have brought me up standing . . . at salute. Listen:

"Keep on the doing end of life. There is always one good factor in every setting. Use it for achievement. Don't sit and dread the ninety and nine potential evils. He who does all he can with the little he has, soon has more. If you set all your assets to work and use the wits you have to help them, your chances are good. If you wait until you have all the help you need, you will need it badly."

Trumpet notes! Surely you can hear them, however loud the uproar around you? And with those eighty-one short words, memorized now, adopted today, acted on henceforward—is there anything you should accomplish that you can't accomplish?

It reminds me, this challenge, of old Dr. Johnson's expression: that if every beginner of an enterprise sat down and enumerated all the things against it, no enterprise would ever have been started.

What's your enterprise? Legitimate, obviously, or it deserves to fail. You can't tell me what it is, of course; but you can tell yourself. Then reread that second paragraph—and read it again. And go out and do the thing you now (hope, pray, fear) intend to do!

So many of the best of us need timely re-cheering. Here's the young fellow seeking a job; planning a study course; wanting to propose; trying to advance himself. Here's the middle-aged man doubting his energies, his future, with the late forties ahead. Here's the school girl, striving toward a scholarship; the mother, with sons married and gone, and a blank of days stretching nowhereward. "Mind none of these!" urges a Voice Within. And one will do well to heed that voice—for it's the voice that announces nearby victory. . . .

Just a paragraph—from David Seabury's "Adventures in Self-Discovery." But it covers a multitude of mortal hesitations—and can shape a multitude of waiting accomplishments.

DAIRYMEN ELECT TWO COW MEN TO CONGRESS SEATS

Wisconsin Voters Tire of Lawyer Representation.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Wisconsin, which gets the major part of its farm income from dairying, has elected two dairy experts among the eight Republican congressmen just swept into office. The farmers and cattle raisers of the two districts, apparently tired of the farm regimentation policies of the New Deal, elected to congress men who know the problems and difficulties as well as the rewards of farm life.

Harry W. Griswold.

The two dairymen are Reed F. Murray of Waupaca, who was elected in the 7th district, and Harry W. Griswold of West Salem, in the 3d.

Murray made his campaign on the issue that there were too many lawyers and stump speakers in congress and that the whole house of representatives would be brightened considerably by a cow man from a cow district.

One Per Cent of Nation's Cows.

The ten counties of the 7th district contain 1 per cent of all the cows in the United States. Its largest county, Marathon, is distinguished as one of the greatest dairy wealth producing counties in the nation. The district produces a large share of the Wisconsin cheese, and Wisconsin in turn makes more cheese than all the other forty-seven states combined.

Griswold is the son of the late H. D. Griswold of West Salem, who a generation ago, with former Gov. W. D. Hoard and Charles H. Everett of Racine, turned the state from a losing grain state into an outstanding dairy center.

Both of the new farmer congressmen are products of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, farm born and reared and specialists in improving the character and capacity of dairy cattle.

Leader in Guernsey Breeding.

Griswold is a leader in Guernsey cattle breeding. His farm home at West Salem, in La Crosse county, is an example of the steady increase in economy of production by improvement in the breed of dairy cows. He is an official in various Guernsey cattle breeding organizations. His father was one of the original farm institute speakers and the son followed his footsteps in working to advance the agricultural status of the state.

Murray, after leaving the college of agriculture, worked in the farm division of the Great Northern railroad, promoted farm trade for an Oshkosh bank, and then became county agent of Winnebago county. He returned to the university as district leader of county agents and also served as district leader of the Wisconsin live stock board.

"Live stock farmers are worse off than ever in history," he said. "Ninety per cent of Wisconsin's farm income comes from live stock and live stock products, yet with all their skill and investment Wisconsin farmers have been selling their milk, cream, butter, and cheese at one-half to three-quarters of the cost of production.

"And they were following the almost universal practice of sending a lawyer to represent them in congress. That gave me the idea of a cow man in congress from a cow district."

Murray had not been in politics before the campaign this fall, but he entered with a zip. He imported a Canadian bull, one of the 494,000 brought from Canada last year; named it "Reciprocity," put it in a truck, and hauled it around the 7th district for the farmers to look at.

The 7th district had many better bulls for sale than Reciprocity, and as the Canadian bull toured the ten counties it was an object lesson in the loss of home markets which the farmers suffered through the New Deal trade treaties. The effect was shown on election day.

Run Progressives to Cover.

Two years ago Gerald J. Boileau, the Progressive incumbent, beat the Republican nominee by 15,000 votes. This year, Murray ran 8,500 votes ahead of Boileau in a district that always had been one of the Progressive strongholds.

Neither Murray nor Griswold are going to Washington with a farm program, but each has promised to the best of his ability to look after dairy farming interests.

Griswold is going to the capital with only one strongly marked aversion. That is to what has become known as New Deal "must" legislation. "Must" legislation to Griswold is as a red rag to one of his bulls.

Neither of the two men is a play farmer whose living has come from other sources. They are practical dairy men and they know what a dairy farmer needs to make a living. Their farm supporters say Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will profit greatly if he consults them often and heeds their advice.

Meadville, Pa., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Scores of motorists stood by helplessly last night while Harry Hilliard, 31 years old, burned to death in his overturned automobile near Cambridge Springs. He lost control of his machine on a curve. It struck a bridge abutment, rolled over, and burst into flames. Tourists rescued Mrs. Hilliard from the blazing car but Hilliard's left hand was caught and efforts to free him were in vain.

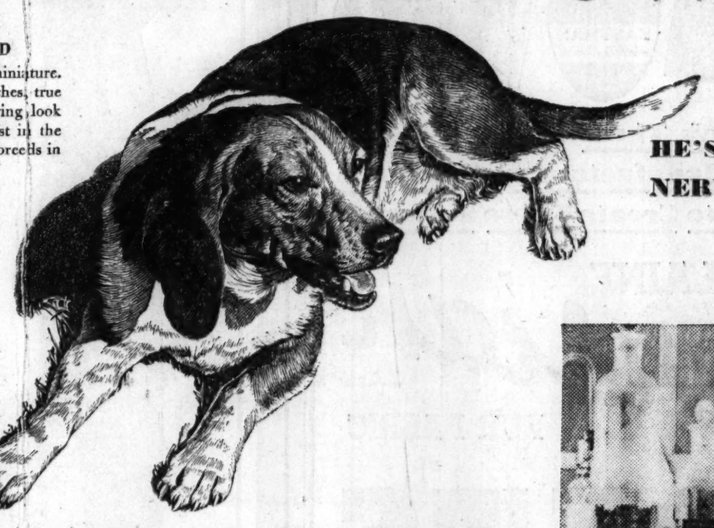
YOUR WILL-POWER ...THE MODERN HAZARD TO YOUR NERVES



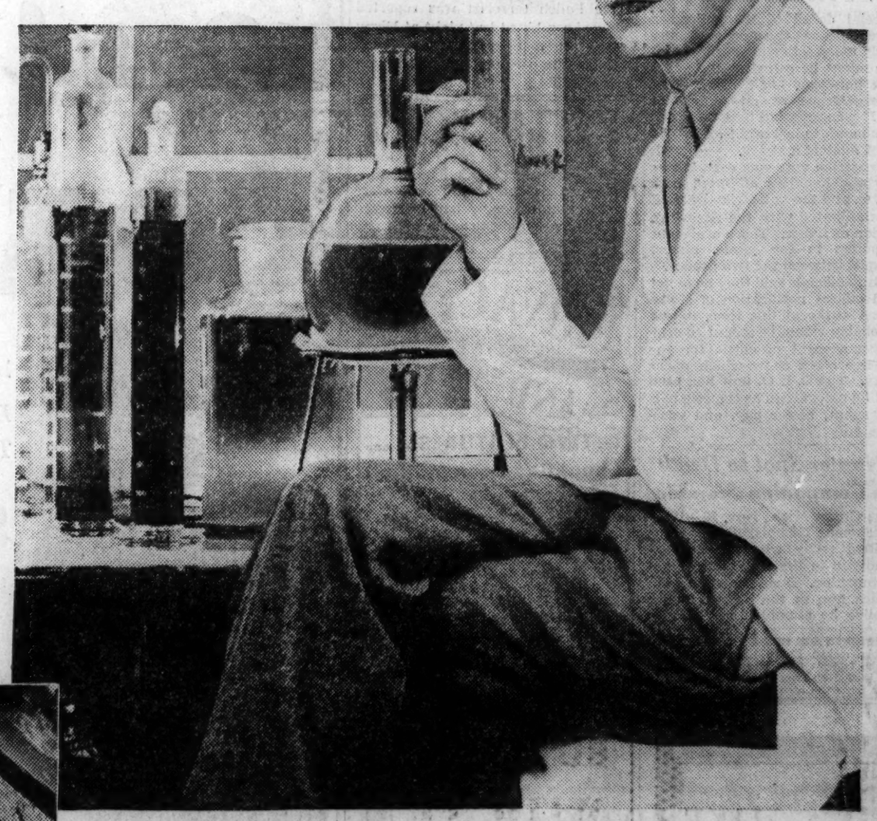
BEAGLE HOUND
English fox-hound in miniature. Solid and big for his inches, true beagle has the long-wearing look of the hound that can last in the chase. One of the oldest breeds in history—close to the original breed of hounds. U. S. standards specify 15 inches maximum height—any true hound color acceptable.

THE frazzling pace of these fast-moving times doesn't mean a thing in the life of the dog. Although his complex, high-keyed nervous system closely resembles our own, when the dog feels his nerves tire he settles down—relaxes—as the beagle hound above is doing. That is instinctive with the dog. We are not so likely to break nerve tension before it gets our nerves upset. We drive on. We worry. Ambition and determination push us on and on . . . past the warning stage of nerve strain. Will-power silences the instinct to pause and rest.

And yet jittery, ragged nerves are a distinct handicap. Don't let your nerves get that way. Learn to ease the strain occasionally. Let up—light up a Camel! It's such a pleasant, effective way to rest your nerves—a brief recess, mellow with the pleasure of Camel's mildness and ripe, rich taste. Yes, no wonder smokers say Camel's costlier tobaccos are so soothing to the nerves.

HE'S GIVING HIS NERVES A REST....

AND SO IS HE



THEY'VE LEARNED—MILLIONS HAVE—TO GIVE NERVES RELIEF...THEY

"Let up—light up a Camel"

In the heart of the Congo, Leila Denis (right) and her explorer husband filmed Universal Pictures' epic, "Dark Rapture." Camels were an important item in Mrs. Denis' 42,000-mile trek. She says: "Such ventures can be quite nerve straining, but it's my rule to pause frequently. I let up and light up a Camel. Camels are so mild, so soothing."

Smoke 6 packs of Camels and find out why they are the LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

Covering trials, accidents, sports puts a big strain on the nerves of crack Western Union telegrapher, George Errickson (at right). "I avoid getting my nerves 'tense, wound up,'" says operator Errickson. "I ease off from time to time, to give my nerves welcome rests. I let up and light up a Camel."

AN ANALYTICAL CHEMIST'S job is intensely nerve straining. No wonder so many of these men welcome a pleasant way to break nerve tension often. They let up—light up a Camel.

DID YOU KNOW:

—that cigarette tobacco is dried for the market, or "cured" by several general methods, which include air-cured and flue-cured? Not all cigarettes can be made from the choicest tobacco, the fine top grades—there isn't enough of it available! Therefore it is important to know that Camel cigarettes are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

BLACK ACCEPTS OFFER TO HEAD HEALTH BOARD

Election to Bundesen's Post Due Today.

Dr. Robert A. Black, specialist in children's diseases and professor of pediatrics at Loyola university, yesterday accepted a temporary appointment as president of the Chicago board of health. He will replace Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, who was granted an indefinite leave of absence pending the outcome of the government's anti-trust action against the milk industry.

Dr. Black has been a member of the board of health since 1935. His selection as its president is expected today by vote of the other members, Dr. Louis E. Schmidt and Dr. Francis J. Dulak.

Mayor Does "Good Day's Work."

"I have persuaded Dr. Black to accept the temporary presidency of the board of health to fill the vacancy caused by the leave of absence of Dr. Bundesen. I feel that I have done a good Sunday's work for the city," said the mayor in a statement yesterday. "No more distinguished physician ever sat in the health commissioner's chair.

"Dr. Black, in thirty years of practice, has acquired a national reputation as a specialist in the treatment of children's diseases and has had many years of experience in public health work.

"He is a member of the Chicago and American Medical societies, a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, and a Fellow and licentiate of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Lauds Dr. Black's Ability.

"Dr. Black is the originator and superintendent of the Jackson Park sanitarium for children with heart disease; he is a professor and head of the department of pediatrics at Loyola university, and is on the staf at Mercy hospital. All this should be proof enough that he is a man of great ability. His attainments indicate his standing in the medical profession.

"I want to emphasize my sincere thanks to Dr. Black for the great sacrifice he is making and for his civic minded attitude."

In his statement of acceptance Dr. Black said:

"I deeply appreciate the honor Mayor Kelly has tendered me, particularly because of the friendship that prompted his offer. I have hesitated to accept because I am just a doctor with some experience in treating children's diseases, and the presidency of the city's board of health requires more than that."

Compliments Present Staf.

After paying high tribute to the board's staf of 1,200 persons, Mr. Black continued:

"A distinguished physician is to be named as the board's chief medical officer.

"The mayor has convinced me that I can discharge my duty to my patients, and at the same time fulfill the obligations of the presidency of the board of health. So I am taking a leave of absence from my teaching and other hospital duties to accept the position.

"I hope that with the assistance of a fine staf and the coöperation of my fellow doctors, I can do the job and maintain Chicago's reputation as one of the world's most healthful places in which to live."

Dr. Black, who is 59 years old, is married and lives at the Del Prado hotel.

JOE, WHO'S 20, MEDITATES ON FLEETING FAME

Joseph Reposa, 20 years old, admitted yesterday at the detective bureau that he was ashamed of himself.

"The last time I was arrested," he said, "was for painting my name on Plymouth Rock. A judge at Plymouth, Mass., sentenced me to clean the paint off. Now I'm arrested for stealing $3 worth of dime store jewelry. It's quite a comedown."

The alleged burglary took place in a rooming house at 23 East Ontario street, where Reposa lives.

CRUSHED TO DEATH BY TRUCK.

Queen Elizabeth Will Wear Crown at U. S. Functions

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Queen Elizabeth will take her jeweled crown when she visits the United States and Canada next summer to wear on state occasions, it is reported. The crown of King George VI. cannot be taken outside Great Britain so he will appear at official functions minus his glittering headpiece.

CAPTURE DRIVER FLEEING SCENE OF AN ACCIDENT

Samuel De Stefano, 19 years old, 510 South Claremont avenue, was captured last night after he tried to escape from the scene of an accident. His automobile ran down two women at Central and Schubert avenues. The women, Mrs. Edith Bridges, 50, of 2655 North Parkside avenue, and Mrs. Dollie Mooney, also 50, of Beardstown, Ill., a visitor, suffered leg injuries and were taken to the Belmont hospital. De Stefano's car overturned two blocks away, and he was held for police by Henry Sloper, 24, of 2511 North Marmora avenue.

John H. Sheetz, 55 years old, 5550 Drexel avenue, was killed early yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding and another collided in route 152, three miles east of Crown Point, Ind. He was on his way back to Chicago after witnessing a college football game, in which one of his sons played, in Cincinnati, O.

With Sheetz were his son, Albert, 14, and Thomas Murphy, 47, of 5353 Glenwood avenue. The other car was driven by Elmer J. Johnson of 3601 Parrish avenue, East Chicago. The boy and the two men were injured slightly.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 764 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county. Of these, 590 were killed in Chicago, where 17,999 were injured during the same period.

Walks Home After Being Hit by Auto; Found Dead

Louis Garms, 57 years old, 3055 Oconto avenue, was found dead in bed in his home yesterday, presumably the consequence of an automobile accident. Police were told that Garms had been struck by an automobile in the vicinity, but had managed to walk home.

COMMISSION MERCHANT DIES IN CRASH.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—William B. Sullivan, 58 years old, head of the Sullivan Livestock Commission company here, was killed, and Larry Anderson, employé of another commission firm, was injured last night when their automobile went off the road near Stuart, Neb.

Gonmesen was washed overboard from the vessel, the Mariner, in September, 1936, off the Oregon coast.

Despondent Over Deaths of 2 Sons, Tailor Hangs Self

Jacob Mattern, 71 years old, a manufacturing tailor, was found dead yesterday in the basement of his home at 4851 Catalpa avenue. He had hanged himself, his wife, Elizabeth, told police. She said he had been grief stricken over the deaths of his sons, Julius and Frank, officials of the Mattern Manufacturing company, makers of X-ray equipment, who were killed in an explosion last August.

THE WAR SCARE.

The assistant secretary of war, Louis Johnson, has announced that our present air force is only a third or a quarter as large as it should be. Our supply of ammunition and many other materials of war he described as equally deficient.

His figures are a shocking rebuke to an administration which has squandered 20 billion dollars and the time of hundreds of thousands of leaf-rakers while it has permitted the safety of the nation to be neglected for lack of supplies.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Johnson's figures will be examined critically by congress, not only to fix the blame for past neglect but also to discover what our present needs in the way of military equipment really are. Recent utterances in Washington suggest that an effort is being made to obtain immense appropriations by frightening the American people into the belief that war is imminent and that we are totally unprepared for it.

The inadequacy of the preparation may be admitted but the imminence of war is another matter. There will be plenty of time in which to make an orderly survey of our armament needs and orderly appropriations to fill them. Japan, with her enormous commitments in China, is not likely to attack us within the next decade, to say nothing of the next few weeks; and Germany, with only the skeleton of a navy, can't begin to consider it. Of course, a war can be made in Washington quite as effectively as in Berlin or Tokio, but if we keep our shirts on America can stay out of war at least long enough to get ready for it.

There is no need for panic or hysteria. There is need to examine the war department's estimates with great care and discover whether they are being put forward as a means of spending money rather than of strengthening the nation's defense. The WPA scandals have been so numerous and so shocking that the administration no doubt fears that it must look elsewhere for a political slush fund. A tremendous increase in the purchase of armaments of all kinds, needed and unneeded, would go a long way to replace the WPA as Santa Claus.

THE COMMUNITY FUND.

With a goal set at $3,550,000, the drive for the Community Fund has passed the two million mark. About $1,380,000 has yet to be obtained.

Thus far the industrial groups have raised more than 75 per cent of their allotment, the packers leading with $222,576.

The Community Fund will provide means for the real needy of the community. It will not be put out for votes or political hustling or political favors. It will go to the charities which are accredited as to character and competence and the men and women who have contributed may be assured that their money will go for the purposes they intend, without leakage or perversion.

In this assurance our people are giving in spite of the reduction of their own means, in spite of rising taxation, manipulated by politics, in spite of government harassment of business enterprise. It is a spirit of kindness and self-sacrifice of which we may be very proud. It is what we cherish as the Chicago spirit, tried in the fire of many tribulations. There are very few of these donations that do not represent some personal sacrifice these days and the spirit of pity for the destitute and suffering. The true neighborliness and fraternity they express warm the heart and lighten the shadows of a troubled time.

Men and women are giving not merely money but hard work in this drive and we honor their noble service.

TAX DELINQUENCIES.

The Citizens' Committee on Tax Collections, headed by Graham Aldis and James Cunningham, has been addressing itself energetically to the correction of a most serious injustice. Citizens who have made sacrifices to meet their local tax bills promptly and in full are today being penalized for their public spirit. After careful analysis the committee has reached the conclusion that the bills of those who do pay their taxes are 20 per cent higher than they should be; the added 20 per cent is caused by what amounts to the transfer of the obligation from the delinquents to those who have not failed in their duty.

Numerous remedies have been proposed for this evil but only one of them, we believe, will be of any value. The public officials of Cook county have been unwilling to risk the political enmity of the delinquents. The way to collect taxes is to present the delinquent with the inescapable alternative of paying or losing his property. It is said that the law of Illinois is more lenient to tax delinquents than is either necessary or desirable, and this may be true; but it is also true that in most of the other counties of the state there are relatively few delinquencies and, more especially, it is true that no serious effort to enforce collections under the existing law has been undertaken in Cook county for ten years and more.

If the effort is made and it fails for lack of adequate means of transferring title to delinquent property it will be time to talk of law revision. Meanwhile the emphasis must be placed upon the defects not of the law but of the administration of it in Cook county by the elected officials of the county.

THE NEW TRADE TREATIES.

The economic consequences of the trade treaties signed last week with Great Britain and Canada are not easily forecast. It is entirely possible that both the hopes and fears of American farmers and business men may be exaggerated. Certainly the tarifs are not the only influences which affect the volume of trade between our countries. Recent fluctuations in the relation between the pound and the dollar and the difficulty of predicting the future trend of the exchanges serve to emphasize the futility of attempting at this time a precise estimate of the advantages and disadvantages of the agreements.

It is possible, however, to speculate on the meaning for America and the world of closer commercial ties with Great Britain and Canada. So far as Canada is concerned the agreement seems to be a recognition in the economic sphere of the doctrin affirmed recently by Mr. Roosevelt that this country accepts the obligation of defending Canada from any foreign aggressor. It is only natural that those political relationships should be reflected in less hostile tarifs.

In Great Britain the treaty is being heralded as an evidence of closer association between America and Britain. The economic aspects are regarded as secondary and the political as primary. Britain evidently hopes that the commercial treaty symbolizes the willingness of America to coöperate with England in foreign policy. It is also hoped there that the more intimate trade relations will of themselves encourage, and perhaps even force, joint action in the sphere of international affairs.

Whether the state department shares these views is less certain. It is altogether certain that the mass of the American people believe that any economic betterment which may come from the tarif reductions would be bought at far too high a price if they meant entangling this country in a European alliance.

America, Canada, and Britain are tied in a series of treaties which do not involve Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Ireland, and other areas in the empire. It may be that Britain, despairing of future military support from the dominions, is more than ever looking to the United States for backing. What we get in exchange is not immediately apparent. There was no provision for particularly intimate trade relations with the British colonies in the West Indies with a view to their eventual transfer to America.

TWO GOOD APPOINTMENTS.

THE TRIBUNE'S report that the President will submit the appointments of Attorney General Otto Kerner as justice of the seventh Circuit Court of Appeals and of Michael L. Igoe as judge of the United States District court of the northern district of Illinois will be more than welcome to the bar and public.

Both men are able and of proved integrity. Mr. Kerner's experience on the Circuit bench of Cook county and in the Appellate court of this district well fits him for the responsibilities of the federal Circuit Court of Appeals. He has proved to be one of the best attorney generals the state has had. He has the judicial temperament and marked ability.

Mr. Igoe has had a long career in public office and has earned the respect of the community he has served for his vigor, reliability, and public spirit. He will be a judge whose regard for justice will not fail.

These two selections are highly creditable to the Democratic party in Illinois. It is a pity the same good judgment and regard for the public good did not operate to prevent its coöperation with New Deal administration in some of its costly blundering.

The party in the state cannot expect to be absolved from responsibility for the support given the New Deal at the expense of the people of Illinois.

POETRY FROM THE GRAVE.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

A correspondent writes:

Since the Evening Sun appears to be considerably preoccupied with graves, at this time perhaps it would not be amiss to take note of the fact that the grave of the poet Edmund Spenser in Westminster abbey is shortly to be opened in a search for poems by Ben Jonson, Beaumont and Fletcher and, possibly, Shakespeare.

The search, according to a news dispatch from London, is to be conducted by the Rt. Rev. Paul de Labilliere, dean of Westminster abbey; Sir Charles Peers, surveyor of the abbey, and Lawrence Tenner, keeper of muniments and the library. According to historians, leading men of letters indited poems and dropped them on Spenser's coffin at his funeral in 1599.

This, however, is not the first time that a grave has been opened in quest of literary treasure. In February, 1862, Elizabeth Siddall, the lovely titian haired wife of the poet and portrait painter Dante Gabriel Rossetti, committed suicide, leaving a note which indicated that her husband had made her extremely unhappy. In his remorse the agonizing Rossetti took the manuscript of his poems and, wrapping them in Elizabeth's lovely hair, allowed them to be buried with her. It was a touching gesture. Seven years later, however, he had her body exhumed in order to recover the poems, which were published a year afterward.

Getting back to Shakespeare, it will be recalled that his epitaph is a blessing on those who spare his bones and a curse upon any one who would disturb them. Serious Shakespearean scholars refer to this, however, as doggerel not composed by the bard. Certainly it would be interesting if poems by Shakespeare, Ben Jonson, and others are found in Spenser's grave. But the question which must arise in many minds: Evidently the poet contributors expected the grave to be opened at a later date—else why did they put their poetry there? They were not like Rossetti, moved by a guilty conscience.

CURBSTONE BOSSES' CLUB.

[Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.]

Every hour of the working day, a bunch of self-appointed superintendents stand gazing at the excavation on the site of an important downtown building in Bloomington.

The same thing occurs on lesser street or building operations.

Every town has its construction kibitzers. In New York City, where about half the downtown area is always torn up, the business of "straw bossing" has been recognized as a profession.

Now at last the Sidewalk Superintendents' club has been opened at Rockefeller Center on a 100 foot stretch of sidewalk which will provide unobstructed view of the steam shovels below working on the foundations for a new addition to the Center.

The entrance to the new club quarters is decorated with a coat of arms and an inscription in the Dutch language, which translated reads: "The best pilots stand on the shore."

No building in a modern city was ever erected without the presence and silent observation of the sidewalk bosses. It is long past due that they should have proper recognition.

BALLADS OF BATHHOUSE JOHN.

The obituary character studies of "Bathhouse" John Coughlin touched upon his career as a song writer, of course, but failed to give the complete story. It was suggested that "one of the newspaper boys" was the alderman's helper in his somewhat grotesque literary endeavors, but this trail was not followed, although every one of any vintage in the profession knew that John Kelley, former dean of police reporters, now retired and living in Erie, Pa., had a hand in the genial hoax.

Here are the facts in the case: John Kelley did not write "Dear Midnight of Love," with which the Bard of the First Ward made his lyric debut. Apparently The Bath dashed off this ditty unaided. But Kelley wrote all the other ballads that have been credited to the late alderman, and they were numerous. These very eyes have seen him sitting at a desk in the local room of the now extinct Record-Herald, penciling rimes which appeared in print the next morning as the latest effusion of the pride of the city hall.

We will let Kelley tell the story himself, in this excerpt from a letter to his old colleague, William K. McKay, written immediately after Ald. Coughlin's death:

"I don't know that I ever told you how I came to write the Bathhouse doggerel. Soon after May de Sousa made her debut at the Chicago Opera house, singing the bard's masterpiece, 'Dear Midnight of Love,' I met Coughlin at Kenna's place one night, and the gang there was kidding the life out of him. The thought struck me that it might be a good thing to continue the poetic stuff' and give Coughlin the credit or discredit. I suggested it to him and he said, 'Go as far as you like.'

"Leigh Reilly, who was night city editor of the Herald, knew that I was the guilty party, but he always pretended that he didn't. Frequently when I reported for duty on a Sunday night Mr. Reilly would say to me with a twinkle in his eye, 'John, do you think you could induce Ald. Coughlin to dash off a sonnet for our chaste Monday paper?'

"Altogether I wrote about forty ballads. I recall the titles of some of them. There was an 'Ode to a Bowl of Soup' which seemed to strike the public fancy. Others were 'When Moonbeams Kiss the Roses,' 'Why Did They Build Lake Michigan So Wide,' 'She Sleeps at the Side of the Drainage Canal,' 'Welcome to the Press,' 'Thrumming the Light Guitar,' 'They're Tearing Up Clark Street Again,' and 'Auf Wiedersehen.' The latter was written on the departure of Hinky Dink on a trip to Europe in 1905."

ON HEARING KREISLER PLAY.

Much music have I heard, and often been Transported into realms of thought by song,
And tried to catch some strain to keep within
My heart; to bind it tightly with some thong
Of memory, and hold it ever so.
But always did I fail until I heard
Pure music unadorned from Kreisler's bow.
He talked in melody, each note a word;
And every word I can recall tonight
As clearly now as when I heard him play.
The sound remains as vivid still as sight;
It will not fade and die with yesterday.
For him the shifting, evanescent tone
Abides, immutable as paint or stone.

TESTAMENT THE GREATER.

(For M.-A.)

Let others sing of friendships strange and rare;
But I will make a braver song for ours,
Weaving a pattern fine and strong and fair. . . .
A painted barrow gaily heaped with flowers
That prodigally spill their fragrance out;
Red wine that sparkles in the candlelight;
The warmth of sunshine, scattering all doubt;
A melody remembered in the night;
And oft told tales, well loved throughout the years;
A trouvère singing down the ancient ways. . . .
All lovely laughing things that banish fears
And shed a gallant gladness on our days.
These need no constant tending; time's impress
Adds only strength unto their loveliness.

Polonius Said It First.

A pun, or one of its near relatives, popped into my mind as a result of the following verbal explosion at the front Line on Nov. 16:

"So let us hear no more about brevity being the soul of wit. . . . The editor of this column, in spite of stale maxims, knows only one way of doing his work, and that is his own way, be it short or long, slow or fast, modern or ancient."

"Aha!" sezzi, "a maxim silencer!"

Ralph Noel.

"Brevity is the soul of wit" was first spoken by a senile statesman of medieval Denmark, known as Polonius. Shortly afterward the crown prince, a notorious manic depressive named Hamlet, called the begetter of this maxim "A tedious old fool."

THE INTELLIGENT USE OF HOME REMEDIES.

SOMETHING to relieve every ache and pain would be a grand thing to have, but when recourse to tablets becomes second nature in every instance of a muscle twinge, headache, fever, cold, upset stomach, or distress in the abdomen, it becomes too much of a good thing. Just "any old" drug may prove harmful. Why? Because few of us know exactly how such substances act. Some may depress the heart and circulation, while others may disturb metabolism or interfere with the secretion of the normal digestive juices. One may bring about a profuse perspiration and should nausea and vomiting be present the ensuing loss of water may be difficult to replace. As a result, the blood may thicken—become more sluggish—thus interfering decidedly with the nutrition of organs and tissues.

As far as is known, there is no specific that will break up a cold—that is, arrest its progress abruptly. Rest in bed may do this through a rise in body reserve, but to expect that a pill or two will allay the inflammation on the mucous surfaces is beyond the realm of possibility. Some day—perhaps—we may find an antidote, but even then only partial success can be expected.

Many of us, however, number among our acquaintances a substantial quota of self-dopers. The concoctions are swallowed not for any special disorder nor for the routine carrying out of the physician's directions. With many, it is just to be doing something—to make good health better.

"I had a little bout with indigestion and so I am taking these tablets," one may remark. "What are they? I don't know. A friend told me about them."

We would have no need to bother about this matter were it not for the fact that occasionally this habit is dangerous. Not only is it likely to cover up important symptoms, but it may occasion enough of an upset to produce real illness. For the most part, the preparations employed are relatively harmless, but even an innocent variety used continuously may prove deleterious.

Not long ago a man suffered a severe eruption on the skin. Expert dermatologists were baffled because they could not trace contact with an irritant. With the dermatitis spreading, the patient finally admitted that he had been taking a sizable quantity of headache powders two or three times a week for several months. His skin cleared as soon as he stopped using the compound in question. The headaches were then investigated and traced to eyestrain.

The tendency back of all this is that some people desire to act as their own physician. As has been well said, the one who treats himself has a fool for a doctor. Rarely will a medical man prescribe for himself even though he recognizes his trouble. Neither will he give advice to a member of his family unless the ailment is simple and uncomplicated. He realizes that looking within oneself may disclose a distorted picture as the inspector is likely to overemphasize certain symptoms while underestimating the importance of others. The wise practitioner has learned that when he becomes ill the responsibility is that of one of his colleagues and rarely will he concern himself with the type of management that may be followed.

Years ago the family medicine chest contained but a few simple items. Castor oil, spirits of camphor, senna, and paregoric or laudanum. These—with hot water and baking soda and ground mustard from the kitchen—composed the entire apothecary shop of the home. For the most part, such products were not abused and if, after a trial, the patient did not feel better, the doctor's horse would soon be seen tied to the hitching post.

Every household should have a medicine cabinet [located beyond the reach of children], in which a few plain remedies may be kept, the effects of which are thoroughly understood. Each bottle or box should be marked plainly. But the indications for use should be clear. A dose of castor oil in the presence of an acutely inflamed appendix may convert a simple inflammation into a spreading abscess, endangering life.

[We have a list of a few simple remedies that are useful in the home. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this if desired.]

BLASTING IN THE AIRWAYS!

L. T. writes: When I blow my nose, my ears seem to crack. This makes me dizzy. What is the cause?

You are increasing the pressure in the middle ear spaces. There is a direct connection between these areas and the throat—the Eustachian tubes. As a result the sense of balance is disturbed momentarily. When will we learn not to air blast mucous discharges from the nasal airways?

GARBAGE RECEPTACLES.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—[Friend of the People.]—I live on the third floor of an apartment house which consists of five light housekeeping rooms. All the tenants dispose of their garbage in an uncovered bushel basket in the vestibule, thus giving the hall a bad odor. The bathroom is also unsanitary. Can something be done to remedy these conditions? Isn't there a law for the regular inspection of rooming house toilets and garbage disposals? C. F.

An inspector visited the premises complained of and the following notice was issued: "Provide adequate covered metal garbage and refuse receptacles. Discontinue use of baskets for storage of garbage."

Following a reinspection our inspector reported that the nuisance had been abated.

THE FIRST SITDOWN STRIKE.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Charlie, my wife's cousin, who lives with us, drives me nightly to the basement with his "Stick 'em up. Two Gun. Call the wagon, Joe. Hot seat for you, 'bo" radio programs and his "Wife shoots husband, second flat, rear. Husband strangles wife in tavern. Gun play and knifing in dance hall. Men robbing chain store. Holdup in alley," or "Brand new sedan stolen" police calls.

I'm down here now with the dog and te kill time until he goes to the hay or the tubes blow out. I am writing about the paragraph in your paper on Nov. 15 which says: "The sitdown strike is generally said to have had its inception in Racine, where employés in the J. I. Case company sat at their benches and denied officials of the company access to their plants."

This is about seventy-nine years wrong, for there was a sitdown strike on the Chicago and Alton railroad in 1859, not for higher wages but for several months' back pay. In telling about it THE TRIBUNE of the time said: "The yardmaster at Chicago took a train to Joliet yesterday, where a crowd of operatives, sixty or more, took possession, ejected the yardmaster from the engine, and separated it from the train," and "the committee of employment at Bloomington are in quiet possession of all the offices, shops, and machinery at that point, where the general business of the company is transacted. The committee telegraphed to Gov. Matteson that they would deliver up the road on receiving two months' back pay and two months' wages for every month that the road was operated until all arrearages were settled. We understand all stations are in possession of employés excepting Springfield." The above from Carl Sandburg's "The Prairie Years."

D. A. R. FIGHTING "ISMS."

Winnetka, Ill., Nov. 16.—James de Gibbons asks in this morning's paper: "Is the D. A. R. ever going to do anything about communism—Bridges and his ilk?" For many years the Daughters of the American Revolution have attempted to rouse an apathetic public to the dangers of the subversive "isms" that began to creep into our country after the world war. It has necessarily been a slow, tedious process of education. Our national defense through patriotic education program has met with deliberate misrepresentation, ridicule and vilification—but today we are able to say "We told you so!"

It is not up to patriotic societies alone to try to safeguard the American form of government. It is the duty and privilege of every liberty loving citizen, native and foreign born, to cry out against the dictatorship of foreign isms, and to fight for the freedom that has been enjoyed under the American system. And the fight can only be won by the voice of the people, crying loudly enough to be heard on the floor of congress.

Perhaps the combined efforts of all interested citizens will succeed where our minority groups have failed, and we may yet see the secretary of labor compelled to do her duty in the deportation of undesirable aliens—or resign!

RUSSIA A REFUGE?

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Russia is a large and rich country, in its primitive stages, for the most part. This is only a woman's intuition, but it seems to me it would be wise to send the Jewish refugees to Russia, where there is plenty of room and plenty of work. MRS. K. R. O.

WOULD FIGHT AGE LIMIT.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—As industry and business today refuse to employ those of 50 or more I suggest the formation of a national association of forty-niners, pledged to buy no merchandise made by or for sale from any concern operating under the low age limit now in vogue.

One reason given to applicants by some employers is that the cost of compensation insurance is too high on those over 40. This is not true.

If this condition continues, with men past 40 unable to obtain employment, even though they may be efficient and experienced, the government will be obliged to legislate against this discrimination or enact an adequate pension plan along the lines of the "Townsend plan," whether we like it or not.

The writer is not a candidate for benefits under a pension plan, but if we are approaching the time when it is a crime to live more than fifty years some painless method should be devised for liquidating all who reach their fiftieth birthday, regardless of their financial status, since a depression can make the tycoon of today the pauper of tomorrow. The last few years have proven this in countless cases. MARCELL HILL.

REPORTS ROTTEN SERVICE.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Having of necessity [and, I assure you, dire necessity] to travel on the Halsted downtown car line, I must register a strenuous protest on the service given on this line.

I would suggest that a supervisor be placed in the evening at Clark and Austin or thereabouts to get first hand information on the service the patrons on this line receive. The wait is anywhere from ten, twelve, sometimes fifteen minutes, and then when a car finally comes along there isn't a seat to be had—would you like to have to stand from that point to, say, 63d street? I doubt it. Not only no seats, but by the time the car gets to Washington or Madison street there is barely room to breathe.

Further, the condition of the cars on Halsted downtown is simply terrible—after the cars become obsolete and unfit for service on some of the more favored lines they are shifted to Halsted and are certainly a disgraceful looking lot.

BURNED UP.

FOR THE DUCHESS WALLIE.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 17.—I wish you would print some defense of that splendid American woman who is still being persecuted by that hidebound English something known as "royalty" or "society." If she, without effort, fascinated Edward where millions of others tried and failed, that is no reason for thus harrying two fine people. England likes American men, money, and munitions, even our trade and mailed fist in China, but they do not like our women.

The duchess, who was Mrs. Simpson, is a splendid woman. True, she was twice divorced, but so have been other Americans—and English. It would be fine to defend her, even while the king and queen are coming over. E. NORRIS.

CHURCH AND COLLEGE PINKS.

Wichita, Kas., Nov. 16.—Arthur Bartlett in the American Magazine for September states that in the Episcopal church alone 2,861 members including 29 bishops and 486 ministers are affiliated with the Church League for Industrial Democracy, "which is in the forefront of the crusade against the profit system," which is the same thing as saying that they are opposed to capitalism and the democratic form of government as we have had it ever since the nation was founded.

And it is our universities which provided the brain trust which has given us the fantastic New Deal experiments. The rational course to pursue is to eliminate all that is not truly democratic, most important of all of which is our present monstrous system of taxation.

HENRY WARE ALLEN.

BATTLE IN AN "L" CAR.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Last evening at 6:15 two men [one sober, one drunk], riding north on a greatly overcrowded elevated train, engaged in a furious fist fight, rolling in the aile, endangering the safety of at least fifty fellow passengers, while the guard, lounging nonchalantly in the doorway, industriously ignored the whole episode. One man suffered a cut cheek; ten women were pushed against the windows; an indeterminate number of people were frightened and upset.

Several times in the last year I have ridden on the elevated trains with drunken bums who insulted women in the hearing of the guards without arousing the latter to a single reproof.

What's the matter with them? Have they gone sissy?

TWO REPUBLICAN SESSIONS TO MAP '39 PLANS TODAY

Eye Speakership Threat and Mayor's Race.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Republican leaders in Cook county will start formulating plans for 1939 today at two meetings.

A loyalty meeting of G. O. P. state representatives from county districts will be held this morning in the La Salle hotel. County Chairman Edward F. Moore called the meeting to lay plans for forestalling a reported attempt by the Democrats to prevent Republican control of the lower house of the general assembly. The G. O. P. won a majority of the seats in the election two weeks ago.

Managing Committee to Meet.

This afternoon the fifty ward committeemen constituting the city managing committee will meet in the La Salle headquarters to size up the mayoralty situation. The municipal primary falls on Feb. 28. It is believed that several Republican candidates may make their ambitions known during the next three or four weeks.

Chairman Moore said yesterday that after he makes a statement giving his reasons for the loyalty meeting of legislators he plans to withdraw from the conference room and leave everything in the hands of the representatives themselves.

But his statement will go a step further than he has gone up to this time, he said.

"I shall tell the members of the house," he said, "that I have definite information, information that cannot be doubted, that an attempt already has been begun to elect a Democratic speaker in spite of the fact that Republicans will have a majority which probably will be seventy-nine out of the 153 members.

Can't Name Names Yet.

"I am not in a position to name names, but I know that a proposal has been made that the downstate Democratic organization will support a Cook county Democratic member for the speakership if the Cook county Democrats will deliver enough Republican votes from Cook county to give that candidate a majority. That would mean that the Democrats hope to persuade three Republicans to turn traitor.

"We all know that such a thing is absolutely impossible. To afford an opportunity for the Republican members to demonstrate this, it was necessary for some one to bring them together, and so I issued the invitation for that purpose alone."

Chairman Moore said that the afternoon meeting probably will be the first of a series to discuss the mayoralty outlook. He said there is no thought of selecting a candidate at this time.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—June Preisser, who with her sister Cherry, got a theatrical start ten years ago at Chicago's College Inn, is being signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to appear opposite Mickey Rooney. After their Chicago bow the sisters appeared in Ziegfeld's Follies. Cherry Preisser is the wife of David Hopkins, son of Harry Hopkins, Works Progress administrator. They are expecting a baby in February. June is often seen in the company of John Hertz Jr.

QUELL RIOTING PRISONERS ON FRENCH ISLAND

LA ROCHELLE, France, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Extra forces of mobile guards were rushed to Saint Martin de Re Island today to aid in quelling a "general rebellion" among 738 convicts awaiting transfer to France's prison colony off South America. The prisoners are scheduled to board the prison ship La Martiniere Monday to sail for the penal colony that includes dread "Devil's Island."

Windows were shattered in the prison and the central building itself was slightly damaged during rioting which began at lunch hour Saturday.

Senegalese troops, stationed near the prison, quickly mounted guard and kept the prisoners within the walls. When the reinforcements arrived today they found the prisoners back in their cells. They will remain to guard against further outbreaks.

IOWA BANKER DIES.

Waterloo, Ia., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—J. A. Spies, 79 years old, president of the Iowa Trust and Savings bank at Emmetsburg and Palo Alto county land owner, died at his home here late last night from a heart attack.

LEGISLATURE'S SPEEDUP SYSTEM TO START TODAY

An experiment in streamlining the operations of Illinois' legislature will be started today when an attempt will be made to plan the work of the general assembly at a meeting of the legislative council in Springfield.

T. V. Smith.

The real test of the experiment will come when the legislature tackles the program laid out by the council, at the 61st regular session beginning Jan. 3. How this brain child of a professor will fare in the rough-and-tumble political arena of the legislature is problematical.

Father of the council scheme is Senator T. V. Smith [D., Chicago], professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago. It was created by the only bill he introduced during his four years as state senator. Although Smith has been elected to congress, he will be on hand today to try to give the experiment a running start toward a useful life.

Most of the twenty state senators and representatives who were appointed to the council are expected to be present. From a research staf employed by the council, they will receive factual data supposed to be free from political coloring.

Their job then is to decide what kind of bills should be presented to the legislature on a number of subjects. At the request of the majority, the bills will be drawn up by DeWitt Billman, head of the state's legislative reference bureau, to go into the hopper in January.

ATTACKER MAY BE TRIED BY U. S. FOR KIDNAPING

Charles W. Greisemer, 19 years old, a parole violator, may be turned over to the federal authorities today to be prosecuted under the Lindbergh kidnaping law. Greisemer has confessed the kidnaping of Mrs. Adele Schreiner, a grain broker's wife, and forcing her to drive to Indiana where he attacked her.

A warant charging him with kidnaping has been issued by United State's Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. Martin Ward, assistant United State's attorney, said the death penalty may be inflicted for the crime.

Greisemer, who is wanted as a parole violator from the St. Charles school, also confessed that he shot and critically wounded William Smith, St. Paul, Minn., a salesman, in a robbery on Nov. 1. Greisemer was seized in a stolen automobile Friday by the Hyde Park police.

Torger Kleiberg of U. of C. Library Dies Suddenly

Torger Kleiberg, 56 years old, a librarian for the University of Chicago, died of a heart attack in his home at 5308 Ellis avenue last night. He was found dead by Dr. M. M. Hipskind, 5710 Drexel avenue, a friend, when the latter called for a visit. Kleiberg's wife Eleanor was not at home at the time.

ROBS PHYSICIAN OF 36 CENTS.

A Negro bandit who was in too much of a hurry robbed Dr. F. D. Hall of 36 cents in his office at 1356 South Racine avenue last night, but missed a much larger sum which the physician had in an overcoat pocket.

Tell Betrothals of Ruth Harvey, Miss Hannaford

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO engagements of interest were announced yesterday at north shore teas. Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Coryell Harvey of 1010 Sheridan road, Evanston, entertained to tell their friends that their daughter, Ruth, was to be married to Westray Battle Hazzard, and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Hannaford of 14 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, told their tea guests that their daughter, Tayloe, was engaged to Albert Churchill of Oakland, Cal., and White Bear, Minn.

Miss Harvey, a member of the Evanston Junior league and the junior board of Northwestern University Settlement, attended the Roycemore school and Northwestern university. Her fiancé is the son of John Potter Hazzard, formerly of Asheville, N. C., now of Fort Myers, Fla. Mr. Hazzard attended the Asheville school and has been engaged in business in Chicago for the last five years. Among the guests at the tea yesterday was Allison Clough of Asheville, a boyhood friend of Mr. Hazzard. Mr. Clough is visiting the Charles G. Littles. The wedding will be an early spring ceremony.

Miss Hannaford attended the North Shore Country Day school, Sarah Lawrence college, the Sorbonne, and was graduated from the University of Chicago. Mr. Churchill attended Harvard, class of 1930. He was president of the Harvard Lampoon and a member of the Signet society, the D. U. club, Phoenix S. K., and Hasty Pudding. The Hannafords' friends had a chance to meet Mr. Churchill yesterday, for he was here for the announcement party. His mother, Mrs. Durand Churchill, was unable to come to Chicago for the occasion. No plans for the wedding are made.

Chicagoans to Attend Gise-Bassett Wedding.

The Thanksgiving holiday will take several Chicagoans to Toledo, O., for the wedding of Miss Kathryn Gise and John Andrews Bassett, which will take place at 4:30 o'clock Thanksgiving afternoon in Trinity Episcopal church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Charles Gise of Toledo. Mr. Bassett's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pomeroy Bassett of Chicago. They will give a dinner at the Commodore Perry hotel on the eve of the ceremony.

Miss Gise's six attendants include Mrs. Harold E. Hayden of Chicago, the former Miss Virginia Sherwood of Toledo, as matron of honor. Frederick P. Bassett Jr. will be his brother's best man, and another brother, Robert Bassett, will come from Yale to usher. Also ushering will be Charles Jamieson Gaspar, whose marriage to Miss Lois Truesdale took place last month; George W. Barker, Kenneth F. Broomell, all of Chicago, and Lewis W. Forman of Bloomington, Ill.

Ralph Bassett, who was married to Miss Betty von Colditz in Florida last spring, is unable to leave his work in Boston to attend the wedding.

After a ten day wedding trip young Mr. Bassett and his bride will return to Chicago, where she will be given a warm welcome. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Bassett are planning a cocktail party in their Kenmore avenue home for the afternoon of Dec. 18, when Robert will be at home from Yale. Many of the guests will be from Barrington, where the young Bassetts are to make their home. Later on Mr. and Mrs. Emil W. Wolff of Ridgebrook Farms, Barrington, will give a party for their nephew and his bride.

Olaf N. Tevanders Delay Arrival from Lake Geneva.

From Lake Geneva comes word that the Olaf N. Tevanders and their daughter, Miss Althea, are remaining at their home, Northwoodside, on the north shore of the lake, for another week. Then they will come into town to spend a fortnight at the Drake before proceeding to their winter home in Palm Beach.

Miss Tevander's marriage to Gilbert G. Drake will take place on Jan. 2 at the Church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea in Palm Beach. It will be an afternoon ceremony with a reception following at the Tevanders' beautiful home in Barton avenue. Several Chicagoans will be going south to be in the bridal party. Mrs. Tevander is just back from a visit in England, where Nelson Tevander is in school, and Miss Tevander is just back from a visit in the east with her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Neil C. Drake.

This morning at 11:15 o'clock at the Arts club the Musicians' Club of Women will present its first artist program. It will be given by the Whitney String ensemble and George Czaplicki, baritone of the Chicago City Opera company. Several luncheon parties have been planned to follow the musical. Mrs. Dwight C. Orcutt, president, and Mrs. George Zendt are among the hostesses.

Cutten; second vice president, Mrs. Harold Leopold; recording secretary, Mrs. Thompson; coresponding secretary, Mrs. Sidney M. Bloss, and treasurer, Mrs. Harold Wilkins.

The Henry Bartholomays, the Hill Blacketts, the Clarence Randalls, the John Nash Otts, Mrs. William Sherman Hay, the Bruce MacLeishs, the Albert F. Madleners, the Albert H. Wettens, the Kenneth Boyds, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Brown, the Oliver M. Knodes, the Edwin A. Seipps, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harris are among the boxholders for the Chicago Wellesley club's benefit tonight.

The club has taken over the opening performance of that rollocking musical comedy, "I'd Rather Be Right" in the Auditorium theater.

Presbyterian Hospital Benefit Tea Today.

Mrs. John Drummond will open her home at 3240 Lake Shore drive this afternoon for a Thanksgiving offering tea for the benefit of the Presbyterian hospital. The tea is being sponsored by the hospital woman's board members who represent the Fourth Presbyterian church.

A daughter was born Friday in the Washington Boulevard hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Heile Jr. of Oak Park. Mrs. Heile is the former Mary Anna Beckwith.

A son was born on Nov. 13 in Chicago Memorial hospital to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Alexander of Wilmette. He has been named Raymond Hall Alexander. Mrs. Alexander is the former Jane Ashcraft.

Mrs. Russell Kelley has gone to Bermuda to visit Mrs. John B. Drake Jr., who is spending the winter in Warwick on the island.

Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball expects to spend the Thanksgiving holiday in New York with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ball. Mrs. Ball hopes to be able to persuade Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Valerian Wellesley, her son-in-law and daughter, to come from their home in England for a visit to America some time after Jan. 1.

Youthful Beauties of North Side

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Two of the prettiest little girls encountered in near north side playgrounds or Lincoln park are Marka, 2 years old, and Suzanne, 8, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. ReQua Jr. Mr. ReQua's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. ReQua, live in Winnetka, and Mrs. ReQua's brother, Edward J. Bermingham, and his family are Lake Forest residents, but the young ReQuas live in town.

Kreisler Music Works Hearers Into a Furor

BY CECIL SMITH.

It was not hard to see, in yesterday afternoon's Orchestra hall recital, why Fritz Kreisler has gained and maintained his phenomenal hold upon the public. For he is the most normal and, therefore, in large measure the most satisfying, of all the great violinists.

His tone floats out into the hall with a sweetness that never becomes saccharine and with a richness that never becomes too lush. In music of marked rhythmic character his accents are sharp, but never overdramatic or overincisive. In blandishing and lilting passages he employs a degree of rhythmic freedom and rubato that exactly makes its point without slipping over the line separating piquancy from mere affectation.

Beyond all this, he always requires his remarkable mastery of his instrument to subserve a real musical end.

The large works on yesterday's program were Tartini's "The Devil's Trill," the monumental Bach Chaconne for violin alone, and Viotti's Concerto in A Minor [the twenty-second in the list of twenty-nine violin concertos by that prolific specialist]. The Bach was notable for its unusual lyric persuasiveness. Where Nathan Milstein emphasizes primarily its intense emotional drive and Joseph Szigeti clarifies its solidarity of form, Mr. Kreisler discovers a unique songfulness penetrating its whole elaborate structure.

A large audience worked itself up into a furor over the beauty of Mr. Kreisler's playing and the superb cooperation of Carl Lamson, his accompanist, and remained planted in its seats at the close of the printed list, demanding encores.

In her song recital at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon Ethel Reid disclosed a light lyric soprano voice with a delightful glitter and spangle in the upper register and an appealing warmth in the lower portion. Though she is still young, she has already developed a considerable degree of flexibility in its use and seems to have good—though not wholly disciplined — musical intentions.

She is not ready for the wear and tear of a professional career, however, until she learns to develop a complete resonance at all times, especially in high pianissimo spots. Also she would do well to act less like a diseuse when she sings songs of a coy order—or perhaps not to sing the songs.

BELLE TANNENBAUM

Beethoven's fragrant Fourth concerto was the vehicle yesterday of Belle Tannenbaum, Chicago pianist, when she appeared with the Illinois Symphony orchestra at the Great Northern under Izler Solomon's direction. Because its huge technical difficulties must be solved in an apparently effortless manner and because its content classifies as subtle and wispy rather than obvious and forthright, this best of piano concertos constitutes a terrific test of a soloist's maturity.

Miss Tannenbaum met the test nicely. Except for a few unguarded moments in which an intended mezzopiano became a mezzoforte instead, the pianist's technique was adequate to the frail beauty of the piece. However, her opening phrases did not suggest soft horns, as Rubenstein's delivery of this theme is unreliably reported to have done. E. B.

Argentinita's Dancing Sets Blood Boiling

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Scooping the town once more, the Arts club last evening gave Argentinita and her Spanish ensemble their first Chicago appearance. This Arts club, therefore, has only itself to blame if our Spanish blood boiled all over the dignified premises and our bull ring shouts set the astonished walls to vibrating.

For this is strong stuff. When handsome, imperious Argentinita ornaments a meter with the click of heel and castanet—when she sweeps a split second ahead of the beat or lingers tantalizingly a split second behind it—then even a watcher who cannot claim a single ancestor born south of the Shetland Isles feels the heat of Spanish sun burning unaccountably in his veins.

And when Argentinita is joined by Associates Pilar Lopez and Antonio Triana, and when Pianist Rogelio Machado gets nicely in the groove, the frostiest Eskimo resolves to settle in Seville even if this unprecedented move takes his last ton of blubber.

In these gorgeously costumed dances of Spain is an immensely vital art—an art whose meticulousness is the more remarkable when you think of the volcanic soil from which it springs. Here is violence of feeling held in expert leash and turned to the most exquisite ends.

Even in the terrific excitement of meter piled on meter and of sound on sound—even when the pulse takes up the stinging rhythm of castanets and the blood surges faster with the mounting noise—even here there are delicacy of detail and a hundred tiny subtleties. The slow sweep of a hand, a chin catching the very reality of hauteur, a face which seems to look detachedly and even humorously on the whole strange business—but a catalog of these details could go on all night.

There is humor in the dances, sometimes humor of character, sometimes an approach of pure clowning. The whole show is marked by a quite intoxicating sunniness.

A visit to the Civic theater found Novella McGhee, soprano, busy with an imaginatively chosen program which contained hardly any familiar items. The singer has tremendous musical talent, with that priceless flair for making a listener's hair stand on end by means of a revealing tone coloring here, an exquisitely rounded phrase there. Technically she is far from perfect. Production is occasionally of the wavering sort, and tonal beauty fades away when a big dynamic effect is attempted moderately high in the scale. Superb accompaniments were provided by Goldie Guy Martin.

The Studebaker theater housed a recital by Beatrice Bell, 12 year old pianist. Her playing of the Mozart A major sonata revealed a discrimination which would do credit to a person of twice or thrice her years. The tempting music was delivered with a restraint which never—well, hardly ever—resulted in a frosty tone. And the subtle color differentiations in the balancing phrases of the rondo proved that the girl has either a fine musical imagination or a painstaking teacher. Probably both.

Well—the Oriental's open again. Dot's nice.

As "Vacation from Love" gets under way you experience the baffling sensation that you've seen it before. You haven't. But the film IS a lot like "Love On the Run," which co-starred the Crawford-Gable team not so long ago.

It's quite a diverting comedy, not because of the story but because of excellent performances by an A-1 cast.

It speaks well for a player when, at mention of a name, you prick up your ears and decide you want to see the film that features him or her, regardless of the movie's subject matter. . . . This always happens to me in the case of Dennis O'Keefe. In "Vacation from Love" he gives another whacking good performance.

In this movie he's a haywire saxophonist, Bill Blair, who "objects," at Patricia Lawson's wedding to her marriage to the stuffed shirt whose name she is about to assume.

The young woman, Bill's match in gay eccentricity, agrees with the objector, flees with him, in her wedding gown, and becomes Mrs. Blair. . . . The two vow to "love, honor, obey—and always have fun!"

Everything is just lovely for a while. BUT, as time marches on, Bill becomes immersed in business and one day forgets an anniversary.

The Blairs AREN'T, after that, always able to have fun. . . . After a deal of this, thus and that, a Paris divorce is on the boards. But the sort of crack brainedness that broke up a wedding prevents the divorce.

Action whirls along at breakneck speed, and, though it's often far from credible, hands you no dull moments.

Miss Rice makes an ideal teammate for Mr. O'Keefe. I hope to see these two play together often.

A Door Closed Softly

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, and his cousin, Alison Young, going to a party at Lady Wibbe's, stumble by mistake into the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. Young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. David learns his former love, Betsy Greentree, lives in the mysterious house. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David sends a letter to Betsy which is unanswered. He confronts Scarpath who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being cared for by his sister Evie. David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she is miserably unhappy. When the specialist, Dr. Broderick, insists on her taking the medicine which always makes her feel worse, Betsy grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived she explains Penelope helped her escape. Under their care Betsy rapidly improves. Colin learns Dr. Broderick is a drug addict. Fanny Rush arrives and stays with Geoffrey, whom she admires. When Geoffrey learns she intends to disinherit Betsy he kills her. Broderick has the body cremated. Under pretext that Fanny is dying and calling for her, Geoffrey gets Betsy to go off with him. Drugged and unconscious she is taken home and from there by ambulance to a private nursing home, with Evie as nurse. Penelope Wibbe sees them leaving. David, Colin, and Alison trace the ambulance to the home.

INSTALMENT LV.

A SECOND CRIME IMMINENT.

"What can you tell me about Mrs. Smith, the new patient?" asked Colin. Sarah Glover trained her bright brown eye upon him. "You're a doctor yourself, maybe?" she demanded. "Thought so, I get to know the look of 'em. . . . Well, then, it's not much I can tell you—only she's very bad. When I've bin in to mop the floor she's bin covered to the chin and dozing. Nasty, rattling cough she's got, deep down in 'er chest. I don't stop long. The doctor shoves me out."

David stirred. With a warning glance at him Colin invited details about the doctor and nurse. Mrs. Glover, now drinking her ale with enjoyment, replied that the doctor was one of the big snobs as well as being an old friend of Matron's, which seemed surprising, as in six years he'd never been near the home.

"He's got a room alongside, and him and Mr. Smith takes turns resting in it. The nurse sleeps on the other side. Yes, three of the best rooms they've got, so they seem to be rich enough. Cawn't say much for the nurse. Not that I've 'ad a word out of 'er. She looks scared to me—just stands abaht gawping, like as if she wasn't used to 'er job. Well," Sarah cast her droll eye round, "anything more?"

Alison asked if it was usual for the doctor and husband to stay with the patient.

"I 'ave seen it 'appen," pronounced the charwoman judicially. "Not wot you might call frequent. Mostly it's when the patient's not expected to live. This one ain't. Matron keeps saying wot a shame it's not going to be a nice, long case. She's got the oxygen tent laid ready."

Oxygen! David gripped the table.

Colin rose and followed their guest to the door.

David showed signs of getting out of hand, so only to Alison Colin confided that the circumstances were much as he had foreseen—nursing home all but a sham, its proprietress fawning on Broderick's patronage, but wholly ignorant of the true state of affairs.

"How long?" Alison whispered. Equally guarded, he told her that tonight probably marked the limit. "If we don't catch her then," he added, moistening his lips, "she'll snuff out like a candle."

David must not guess—or did he get it now? Fists doubling. "Don't wait till this evening!" he rounded on them. "Can't you see we're missing our last chance?"

"You've heard Dr. Ladbroke's reasons," interposed the detective firmly. "It has to be at night—fairly late, too, or it's worse than useless. Now then, let's settle details and you three clear out of this neighborhood. If one of you is recognized what will happen? Either the patient will be removed God alone knows where, or else things will simply be raced through."

It was tonight or never, then. David with a bad grace gave way, and against every instinct returned with Alison and Colin, leaving Bream to carry out a few commissions locally. His two companions saw the necessity of keeping tight hold on him during the day, and as Colin had other jobs to occupy him this task devolved chiefly on Alison. No easy undertaking! He was cavern-eyed from lack of sleep and could scarcely be driven into taking food. In midafternoon, bringing him strong tea, she found him cleaning his second-hand automatic and cursing himself.

"O, God why didn't I warn her? If she'd known about that will—even about her ring—it might have put her on guard. As it was it wanted only Fanny's letter to persuade her this husband of hers wasn't half bad after all. I sent her straight into the trap.

"We all did, David, meaning the best. Put down that gun. Didn't Colin say none of you must go armed?"

Guiltily he raised a haggard, grease streaked face, slung the automatic aside, and began once more his caged-animal pacing. He had more on his conscience than he had let out. What price his losing control last night when he might have trailed Scarpath and saved twenty-four precious hours? They would snatch her away—O, certainly! but if the time for life saving were gone by?

Bream, having done what was required in the north of London, called back at the Central hall to make his new inquiry regarding ambulances. For once the answer was straightforward.

At 10 o'clock Monday morning an ambulance, ordered by telephone the previous evening, arrived at a house called Welton Hanger, near the village of Crow's Hill, Surrey, and received a body which it then conveyed to the crematorium at Golder's Green. The only name given was that of the deceased—Rush. It was assumed the order had been made by some male relation. Bream rang up Dr. Ladbroke, who ten minutes later burst into Alison's flat brandishing the day's copy of the Times.

"So now we know," he announced, grimly triumphant. "Here we are."

No one had yet bothered to look at the paper, and it was to the births, marriages and deaths column he was pointing. Far down the list this item leapt forth: Mrs. Frances Penn Rush . . . suddenly, at a suburban nursing home . . . cremation . . . no service. . . .

The cousins stared, spellbound with horror.

"Cremation!" muttered David. "When's it to be? Quick, let's stop it! Can't we order an inquest?"

Colin only partly heard. He was telling himself he should have guessed the truth from the fact of there having been a second doctor. Two medical certificates! Of course. . . .

David was shaking him.

"What's that?" he roused to ask. "Inquest!" He dashed the newspaper to the floor. "Mrs. Rush's remains have already been cremated. It was done Monday, at noon."

Now only did full realization crash down on Alison. Previously all theorizing had been set at naught by her own picture of Geoffrey Scarpath—vivid, sympathy compelling. Despite the counterargument she had kept on seeing him as a glorified example of certain young Englishmen with whom she was becoming familiar—egotistical hedonists, rather callous, perhaps, but rotating in a conventional orbit. People whose calendar was regulated by Ascot, the Eton and Harrow match, and the twelfth of August would, she believed, be either too cautious or too disdainful to venture into serious crime. She was mistaken, it would seem.

"Some kink in him," she mused, continuing mechanical tasks with hands like slabs of frozen meat. "Yes, I'm seeing it now. Fanny was murdered—not too skillfully, or she wouldn't have been cremated. She had to go first. After her Elizabeth. . . ."

David, turned to stone, was thinking how Fanny must already have been reduced to a handful of ashes when in this very room Scarpath fooled his wife into going off with him.

"He wrote that letter!" Alison gasped. "O, don't you both see it, Colin! You yourself said he could do most things well—and he'd plenty of Fanny's handwriting to copy. Not only that, he stole the letter back, from this table, or Elizabeth's bag. So the last scrap of evidence is destroyed."

"Quite," said Colin dryly. "I was wondering how long it would take for you to reach that conclusion."

Beauty Slogan: Eat Sensibly, Hold That Line

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

On recent days, as you know, the country over has seen our college elevens hard at work training to keep fit, to hold their lines.

A noted beautician offers the slogan "hold that line" as a beauty motto. The college team routines, she points out, are extremely strenuous. Their diets are carefully watched and attention is given to the muscle building and energy producing foods.

The modern business woman and housewife, you're told, have just as hard a tussle to hold their respective lines—waist and chin.

In the fall and winter one is naturally indoors more. One misses the benefits of sun, fresh air, and exercise. These deficiencies must be made up by the consumption of foods rich in vitamins, yet with low caloric value. There always is a tendency to overeat around the holidays. Train yourselves to be able to leave the table while not quite satisfied and you will not have to worry about the ill effects of overstuffing.

Variety in foods is to be encouraged, we are advised by our noted authority. Breakfast should consist of fruit juice or fresh fruit, a wheat grain cereal for roughage, an egg for protein, toast for energy, and a beverage. Lunch should consist of fruit or soup, lean meat, green vegetables, and milk. These two are the important meals of the day, for they must furnish sufficient energy to permit one to go through her daily routine without fatigue. The dinner meal should not be heavy in view of the fact that, all things being equal, one retires at an early hour.

It is rare, however, that one derives from her diet all the properties needed. It is wise to supplement with yeast in its concentrated form and, similarly, cod liver oil. A program of mild exercise, a half hour's walk in the outdoors, should be part of daily routine to help you "hold that line."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A very bright, very busy young woman confessed to us the other day that she had at last solved the problem of looking fresh all day long. It consisted of mastering a truly correct morning makeup. When she began being conscientious about making up thoroughly rather than by slap-dash methods in the morning, the operation took her twenty minutes. Now it takes her no more than ten. And she has come to the sound conclusion that it saves time for her during the day; she doesn't have to dash to a mirror a dozen times to repair her makeup. But what pleases her most, of course, is the fact that she continues to look human right straight through until 5:30.

There is a great deal to be said for knowing HOW to use your beauty aids; it's every bit as important as knowing what beauty aids to use. That's why we're a persistent rooter for makeup bars. At the makeup bar an expert teaches you just how to use the things you prefer. You might like one system better than another. You can shop around; after all, the town is dotted with bars, staffed by experts, and they're all willing to help you solve your individual makeup problems.

In one store there is a makeup room where a licensed operator teaches you to use any preparations you want. She doesn't try to sell you any. You choose your things first and then have her teach you the correct, deft way to apply them. Other shops have other equally helpful services. The big point is that these makeup bars have been established for your education and assistance and you're passing up an opportunity if you don't patronize them.

A ribbon cake is something like a marble cake, only it isn't marbled. You divide the batter into two parts and add something to one part to make it look or taste different from the other part. So far the procedure is like that for marble cake. But instead of putting the two batters into one pan by alternate spoonsful, for a ribbon cake you bake them separately and put them together as layers. Usually there are three layers, top and bottom alike, middle one different.

Top and bottom layers may be white or gold, and the middle layer chocolate or spiced. Or some combination such as this may be used: One orange layer, two white layers; two lemon layers, one orange; two angel food layers, one sponge; one white layer, one tinted pink, and one chocolate.

Ribbon Spice Cake.
[Three 9 inch layers.]
3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
⅔ cup butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon mace
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ tablespoons molasses
½ cup chopped raisins
½ cup chopped figs

Sift flour, measure, and resift three times with baking powder. Cream butter well and work in the sugar until the mixture is very fluffy. Add egg yolks which have been beaten until light and lemon colored, and mix well. Alternate flour with milk, in small portions, beating the batter until smooth after each addition. Fold in egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff but not dry. Fill two greased nine inch pans with two-thirds of the batter. To the rest add the spices, molasses, and fruit, and pour into another greased pan. Bake at 375 degrees for twenty-five minutes. Spread red currant jelly between the layers after they have cooled and frost with seven minute frosting. Or fill and frost with a mocha butter icing.

Here's a tip for those cooks who have difficulty in folding in the egg whites at the last. Cream only one cup of the sugar with the butter and save the rest for a meringue with the egg whites. When you fold a meringue into a cake batter instead of less stable egg whites, you'll be sure of fluffy texture. To make the meringue beat the egg whites until barely stiff and add the sugar a little at a time, continuing to beat until it is all dissolved. This advice goes for any cake which contains egg white, angel food included.

Chocolate Blush Cake.
[Three 9 inch layers.]
1 cup butter
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs, separated
3 cups sifted cake flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
½ cup cocoa
½ cup boiling water
1 tablespoon creamed butter
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 or 7 drops red coloring
½ teaspoon rose or almond extract

Cream butter and sugar thoroughly. Add well beaten egg yolks and mix well. Sift flour, measure, and resift with baking powder and salt. Add alternately with milk, in small portions, to the creamed mixture. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Remove two-thirds of the batter to a separate bowl. Combine cocoa and boiling water, cool somewhat, and add the one tablespoon of butter, one tablespoon of sugar and soda. Stir into the larger portion of batter and add vanilla. Mix carefully and put batter into two greased layer pans. Add red coloring to tint the rest of the batter a delicate rose and add rose or almond extract. Fill a third layer pan with this batter and bake all three at 350 degrees for twenty-five minutes or so. Cool for five minutes, then turn out layers on a cake rack to cool. Put together with rose layer in the middle, using raspberry jam between layers. Spread with a chocolate frosting.

Malted milk filling and seven minute icing are a good combination for this cake, too.

Malted Milk Cake Filling.
1 cup chocolate malted milk powder
2 tablespoons softened butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons cream [about]

Combine malted milk powder with butter and vanilla and add enough cream to make a spreadable paste.

Family Needs Coal Oil Stove.

Can some reader supply a coal oil heater or some other type of easily run stove for the F. family? The father is unemployable because of illness and one of the children is also an invalid. One boy supports the family on a meager salary, supplemented occasionally by the mother's earnings at day work. There are other children in school. They are not on relief, and the two members of the family who are ill will have charge of caring for the stove, hence the need of one that can be easily operated. The address is just west of the loop.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	2 clubs	3 clubs	5 clubs
Pass	Pass	5 spades	[final bid]

It was South's ill advised cue bid of the opponents' suit that was directly responsible for the bad final contract. Obviously, a small slam in spades was made without difficulty, but since the partnership had stopped at five-odd, the juicy bonus escaped.

A cue bid of the opponents' suit [viz., South's three club bid] very often is good practice, but it was not in this case. South had only indifferent support for diamonds and his first consideration, therefore, should have been to announce his own good spade suit. A two spade bid over East's two clubs would have been absolutely forcing and would have left South with the opportunity to make the club cue bid at a later point, when it would have been much more revealing.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

ANSWERS TO LAST MONDAY'S QUESTIONS.

Q. No. 31: You should bid three diamonds. You have a fair six card suit and a total of one and a half honor tricks in the hand, including plus values. This question really was designed to trap and punish players who make a practice of immediately showing aces in response to a two bid. I reiterate that answers are not based purely on the Culbertson system, but it is a fact that few, if any, outstanding experts or authorities use the ace showing system, and it is equally true that this practice, being one of the worst in bridge, should be stamped out. If South bids two spades in response to the two heart opening, the bidding may rapidly get out of control, and South never may have the chance to show his diamond suit safely. [Twenty points demerit for two spades or any response other than three diamonds.]

Q. No. 32: You should bid two no trump. You have an ace, but your hand as a whole is much too bare for a positive response. As to a two spade response [for ace showing purposes], see answer to question 31. [Twenty points demerit for two spades or any response other than two no trump.]

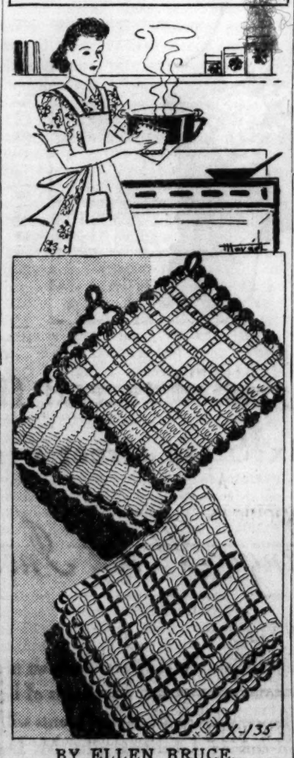
Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of The Tribune, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Crocheted Pot Holders and Dish Cloths Are Smart



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Pot holders and dish cloths might well match the color scheme of every well regulated kitchen. Handmade dish cloths and pot holders are the simplest of crochet jobs and can be created for virtually nothing in expenditure. The waffle stitch holder is finished with a contrasting shell pattern. The block pattern holder is edged in the same way. Two colors for the dish cloth provide added charm to an otherwise commonplace article.

For instructions for crocheting the pot holders and dish cloth, No. X-135, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Most Playhouses to Have Matinees Thanksgiving Day

Special Thanksgiving day matinées are the rule rather than the exception in Chicago's playhouses this week. "I'd Rather Be Right," opening tonight at the Auditorium theater, will be represented in the list of Thursday matinées, but will omit Wednesday's afternoon performance this week. "On Borrowed Time," "Of Mice and Men," and "Susan and God," at the Grand Opera house and the Selwyn and Harris theaters, respectively, will offer Thursday matinées in addition to the usual ones on Wednesday. The Mikado," at the Great Northern theater, which usually has no midweek matinée, also will give an afternoon performance Thursday. Only "Prologue to Glory," at the Blackstone, has decided not to jump on the band wagon.

As guests of honor at tonight's performance of "On Borrowed Time" at the Grand Opera house Dudley Digges, the star, will entertain his friends, Daniel J. McGrath, consul general for Ireland in Chicago, and Mrs. McGrath. Their friendship dates back to Mr. Digges' early days in the Abbey theater at Dublin.

Fear Unknown to Adult Can Frighten Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A mother writes:

"I have a baby 1½ years old. Until a few months ago he was not afraid of strangers. Things have changed now. I can't take him any place or have any one visit us. Whenever he sees any one, other than his mother or father, he cries bitterly and does not stop until we are alone again. I wish you would please help me to correct this in him, as no one means him any harm."

It is not always possible to trace the cause of fears in babies and small children. Although we think that we know every influence that bears upon them, there undoubtedly are things they hear or see which tend to inflame their imagination or which create fear within them.

Mothers whose boys and girls are in their teens are often able to look back and evaluate many kinds of behavior that worried them dreadfully at the time they occurred. This fear of strangers is one of them, and when it attacks a baby mothers take it very hard. They look ahead to having a shy or timid or actually fearful child who never will be able to feel at home in the world of children and grownups.

All this is uncalled for distress, as you learn when enough time has passed for you to get perspective.

Most baby girls and boys reach a point when, from being utterly trusting and holding their arms out to any one to be taken, they veer in the opposite direction. It is natural enough. In a very elementary way, to be sure, they have gained enough experience to recognize that many persons and many situations hold potentialities of fear and uncertainty.

In addition, there frequently may have been persons or happenings that have terrified a child, things we've been quite unaware of: a grimacing expression, a sudden lunge, a harsh laugh, or forbidding voice. It takes time for the older baby or very young child to learn that these contain no menace for him.

When a baby is as distressed as this little boy, forcing will do no good. Some sort of pleasant association with visitors can, perhaps, be worked up [a toy or kitten or present], and a word spoken so that adults will let the baby alone or be very gentle with him. Too much visiting and jaunting about should be avoided for a while. Time and nature and security in his parents' love will cure him.

The 'Gretchen' Model Apron

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRON.

We call this apron the "Gretchen" model because it is so reminiscent of the quaint, square shouldered costumes of the Dutch peasant girls. This square shoulder serves not only as a decoration, but it also is practical, since it helps the apron to stay securely on the body, a feature every homemaker appreciates. Nothing is so disconcerting and aggravating as having to lift a strap when one is in the midst of a household duty that requires both hands.

If you are planning your Christmas gifts, and if you are wise you're doing just that right now, you should bear in mind that aprons make wonderfully acceptable presents to every woman you know. This style is lovely because of its novel neckline, its shirring in both bodice and skirt, and its capacious pockets. All types of inexpensive cottons and linens make up well. Plain shades are just as attractive as prints and have the added advantage of taking well to embroidery. We suggest pattern No. E-700 as being particularly attractive. It's available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2145 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material.

Our favorite entertainer—and probably the favorite of every one who heard him after the dinner the governors of the Casino club gave members the other evening, is John Hoysradt, a tall, blue eyed, agreeable looking young man, a professor of history at Groton before he embarked on his successful career as an entertainer. His subtle impersonations have the charm of spontaneity. His satire on a diplomatic speech as made by leaders of the various nations, featuring all the mannerisms, including the Roosevelt smile and chin lifting, is superb. So is his imitation of an Alexander Woollcott broadcast. Hope some one induces him to come to Chicago for a season.

Big city sight of last week—Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, hatless as usual, eating frankfurters and potato salad in the Balinese room at the Blackstone, an orchid in a glass of water beside her. . . . Evening Coats of Wool Win Style Success

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The season's biggest successes are the romantic and picturesque wool evening coats. Everywhere you go you'll see them. They're the most irresistible finds around the town.

Sapphire blue wool topped with a hood lined with red velvet; amethyst wool trimmed with silver braid; rust colored wool, and so on. Some are furred, some are braid or applique trimmed, and all have stunning streamlines cut like the great coat of the guardsman uniform idea.

And nearly all of them have price tags that mean a thankful gulp from the slightly dazed shoppers. They're all styled so that you can wear them for two ar three winters.

Under these prize winning models are worn all the glamorous dance and party clothes, for the skirts are accommodatingly full. The newest finds, those extremely sophisticated gowns of taffeta, are especially good under the warmth of wool. These new taffeta arrivals will pep up a wilted winter wardrobe no end. If you are quite weary of slinky satins, if your best net is almost in tatters from too much service, if your velvet beauties suddenly pall, try the taffetas and have yourself a new thrill.

Some stunning wide skirted affairs with the molded bodice tops are the last word in evening swank. The billowing skirts are trimmed with huge concentric circles of ruched, fringed taffeta in tritone contrast colorings. A black heart breaker is trimmed with countless small circles of flashing rhinestones sewed all over the skirt.

Lovely lace and this swishing taffeta are promising successes for that in-between lull. Lace combined with dull crêpe makes some lovely dinner costumes, with the fine lace stiffened to stand out over the shoulders.

Cobweb fine lace is used for long sleeved jackets to wear with a velvet or dull crêpe sheath slip. And some of the smartest of severely simple thin wool daytime dresses have incrustations of lace as the only decoration.

The Housewife

Many women inquire about polishes that will clean as well as shine furniture, woodwork or enamel. One such polish is available in four sizes: An 8 ounce bottle, a 12 ounce bottle, a quart can, and a gallon can.

This polish has a slight lemon smell and is sometimes called "lemon oil." You simply apply it with a clean cloth, rub gently, and then wipe it off with another clean cloth. Then, rub hard with a soft piece of old flannel and your table top, or baseboard will have a lovely luster.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

A forty-seven yard pass, Vernon Huffman to Monk Moscrip, yesterday enabled Detroit's hopeful Lions to preserve a mathematical chance of reaching the National Football league's championship playoff. The touchdown that resulted from Moscrip's deft faking and swift sprint was the Lions' margin of victory over the Cardinals in Wrigley field, where 8,279 saw the Chicagoans suffer their ninth defeat of the season, 7 to 3.

Green Bay's defeat in New York leaves the Lions with an opportunity of tying for the western division title. To do so they must complete their schedule with victories over the Bears in Detroit on Thursday and Philadelphia on Dec. 4. Unless there is a marked improvement in their play, however, their chances may survive no longer than Thursday morning. Detroit was not impressive yesterday.

Loss of Shepherd Hurts.

Its attack was throttled down by the absence of Bill Shepherd, the league's leading ground gainer. Shepherd was injured against Green Bay last week and he has spent the week in a Detroit hospital. Club officials, who had let it be advertised throughout the week that Shepherd would play yesterday, presumably in the hope of luring business, said it was extremely doubtful whether the big half back would be able to rejoin the squad this year. He is suffering from a back injury and torn rib ligaments.

Shepherd's failure to appear was a disappointment to the spectators, many of whom had come expressly to see the former Western Maryland star duplicate his performance against the Bears several weeks ago. But they stayed to cheer the Cardinals to one of their outstanding games of the disastrous season. Outcharging the Lions and playing alert, aggressive football most of the game, the Cardinals stepped off into a three point lead early in the first quarter on Bill Smith's field goal from the 24 yard line.

Cards Halt Lion Drives.

Outside of Huffman's touchdown pass to Moscrip, with which the Lions had brought the score to its final tabulation before the first period was concluded, Detroit hardly measured up to championship caliber. Once in the second period and again in the fourth it was stopped on the goal line, where the Cardinals switched from their five man line to a seven and piled up the Lion running attack.

The first of these forays carried forty-three yards to the 3, where Huffman's fourth down pass to Moscrip fell for a touchback. The second also carried forty-three yards to the 3, but

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 20.—Tuffy Leemans, a whirling, dancing dervish, dashed seventy-five yards in the third period this afternoon in the Polo grounds for the touchdown the New York Giants needed to whip the Green Bay Packers. That run strengthened the Giants' hold on the leadership in the Eastern division of the National Professional Football league and left Green Bay vulnerable in its race for the Western division title with Detroit's Lions.

The Giants whipped Green Bay, 15 to 3, but it was Leemans who broke the Packers' resistance. His touchdown, added to the safety Clark Hinkle, Packer full back, gave New York on the second half kick off, was a crushing blow. The fourth period touchdown by Mel Hein, Giant center, after he intercepted Cecil Isbell's pass in midfield, was not needed. It served only to emphasize more the alertness of the Giants' defense.

Largest Crowd for East.

The largest crowd of the eastern campaign, 48,279, watched as the Giants, outsped throughout, suddenly surrounded the sprinting Leemans with perfect interference to break him loose for the thrust that turned seeming defeat into a stirring victory.

Green Bay had recovered from Hinkle's misplay on the kickoff when he ran two yards back into his end zone and there was downed by half the Giant team for the first score of the game. That brief advantage had been wiped out a few minutes later as Tiny Engebretsen, Packer guard, stepped back to the Giants' 22 yard line and with Joe Laws holding the ball, kicked high over the cross bar for Green Bay's 3 to 2 lead.

On the next kickoff Ward Cuff of the Giants, fumbled and Engebretsen recovered on New York's 39. The Packers now appeared ready to capitalize on a superior attack that repeatedly had threatened. But once again the Giants held and Engebretsen's attempted placement with the ball on New York's 33 was short. Leemans caught the low ball on his 5 and came back twenty yards.

Then the Giants struck. Leemans took the pass from center, shot at the Packers' left tackle, and then swerved sharply around the unprotected end as Wayland Becker was dropped sprawling on the muddy turf by Leemans' first protector.

Just Try and Stop Him.

Tuffy picked up speed, cut sharply to his left and bore down on Cecil Isbell, defensive left half. Isbell hesitated and went down under the impact of a blocker. Joe Laws, the final barrier to Leeman's flight, had no

Tight Big Ten Race Ends Just as It Started

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 20.—Western conference football, in the most topsy-turvy season in a decade, completed its schedule yesterday to finish exactly where it started. Minnesota's men, who outrushed Wisconsin's Badgers, and won 21 to 0, retained their championship of the Big Ten.

Thus, despite the multiple possibilities that the title might have been split into as many as five segments, the Gophers will reign another year. Their championship conquest, however, was clear cut because Michigan, in its final encounter, whipped Ohio State, 18 to 0.

Decided Beyond Question.

These important games were decided beyond any question. Wisconsin's line, unable to cope with Minnesota's forwards, only seriously threatened once and then after the Gophers had moved to a commanding lead. Except for an early first period drive to Michigan's 20 yard line, Ohio State was impotent and Michigan, first scoring after Wally Hook had captured an erratic lateral on the Buckeyes' 16 yard line, added two fourth quarter touchdowns to turn the battle into a rout.

Minnesota's veterans, many of whom were substitutes in the 1936 game when Northwestern whipped the Gophers 6 to 0 in Dyche stadium and thus captured the conference title, have lost only one Big Ten game in two years. Last year Minnesota was undefeated in the Big Ten but lost to Nebraska and Notre Dame. This year Northwestern defeated Minnesota, 6 to 3, but the Wildcats fell behind in the title race by scoreless ties with Michigan and Ohio State and a defeat by Wisconsin.

Notre Dame Near Goal.

Notre Dame, conqueror of Minnesota last week, whipped Northwestern Saturday, 9 to 7, in the battle that rivaled in interest the final conference games. Victorious in eleven consecutive games, eight this season, the Irish now face their final opponent, Southern California, in Los Angeles on Dec. 3. If Notre Dame defeats the Trojans, it will have attained the goal of perfect perform-

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

HAIL to Notre Dame, the football champions of the middle west! . . . None remains to dispute their leadership. . . . They routed Minnesota, undisputed champion of the Big Ten conference, 19 to 0. . . . They whipped Northwestern, one of the next best teams in the section and the conqueror of the conference champion, 9 to 7. . . . Their third engagement with a Big Ten eleven was a 14 to 6 victory over Illinois. . . . Elmer Layden's young men have left in their wake Carnegie Tech, which has beaten every other opponent on its schedule, including mighty Pittsburgh. . . . They defeated a representative team from the south, Georgia Tech, and on Dec. 3 will play Southern California, one of the strongest elevens on the Pacific coast. . . . If they finish their season with a victory over the Trojans the Irish will go down in gridiron lore with the undefeated teams of 1919, 1920, 1924, 1929, and 1930. . . . You can settle among yourselves the arguments that will arise through the winter months as to which of these teams was the strongest. . . .

Now a word about Northwestern. . . . Lynn Waldorf's squad deserves something more than a passing glance. . . . Standing out as shining possessions of the university's athletic life are the brilliant stands the Wildcats of 1938 made against two of the nation's greatest teams, Minnesota and Notre Dame. . . . The Gophers have lost only two conference games since 1932 and both were dropped to Northwestern. . . . The Purple need offer no apologies for its showing against Notre Dame. . . . In everything except the score it was the better team on Nov. 19, 1938. . . . Its line outcharged Notre Dame's decisively, especially in the first half. . . . Its backs, particularly Oliver Hahnenstein, caused the Irish more discomfort than any ball carriers they have encountered this season. . . . Northwestern would have won the game except that it made two mistakes, and you can't make mistakes against Notre Dame and get away with it. . . . The first was the team's failure to cover the forward pass which Willard Hofer intercepted and ran back for a touchdown. . . . The second was their failure to rush Steve Sitko shortly before the Irish scored their field goal. . . . It was fourth down and ten yards to go. . . . Sitko faded deep to pass. . . . The Wildcats dropped back to knock it down. . . . Sitko, one of the quickest thinking quarter backs in the land, sensed the situation and ran with the ball for a first down instead. . . .

"It was a tough game to lose," remarked Coach Waldorf in retrospect yesterday, "but that's the way it goes in football. . . . Our boys played well, their best performance of the season. . . . That's what I like about them. . . . They are at their peak when the going is toughest. . . . Bob Voigts had a grand day at tackle despite the handicap of an injured leg suffered against Michigan a week previous. . . . Eby, Diehl, Wells, and Jefferson, other seniors who were turning in their last game for us, also distinguished themselves." . . . Asked for his impressions of Notre Dame, Waldorf said: "Notre Dame plays as a unit. . . . It's one of the swiftest and most alert opponents we have faced. . . . If any individual on the Notre Dame team deserves credit for whipping us it belongs to Ed Longhi at center. . . . He gave one of the finest performances of line backing I ever have seen. . . . We keep track of the tackles opponents make and our records show Longhi made the first six. . . . He was in our hair all afternoon. . . . I'll take that fellow Saggau, too," Waldorf chuckled. . . . Which makes it unanimous. . . . Who wouldn't?

Speed, Power and Deception.

Have you heard about alphabetized football? The quarter back calls letters instead of numbers. For example, if he wants a shovel pass he calls WPA. If he wants a sweeping end run that cuts back, cutting down everything in sight, he calls AAA. If he wants a double reverse he calls FDR, and when the boys are tired and want to sit down he calls CIO.

—Harv of Old Purdue.

Hobo.

I saw you as you trudged along
The dusty road of June,
Only a ragged vagabond
A-singing to the moon.
I know not why I called to you
And bade you rest a while,
For you took away the heart of me
In exchange for a vagrant smile.

Mount Carmel Beats Fenwick for Title, 7 to 6

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

It will be Mount Carmel against Fenger in Mayor Kelly's all-city prep football championship game in Soldiers' field before 100,000 Saturday.

Mount Carmel regained the Catholic league title yesterday on this same field by defeating Fenwick, 7 to 6, before 20,000. A touchdown early in the fourth quarter gave Mount Carmel victory and produced an all-south side affair for the charity game, Fenger having triumphed over Harrison Tech for the Public School league championship, 32 to 18, last Saturday.

Fenwick scored in the second period and seemed headed for the title after three Mount Carmel drives had collapsed. Its last march ended on the Fenwick 17 yard line and it appeared Fenwick, 1936 champion, would return to the all-city contest as the league representative. The situation, however, changed a few minutes later.

Pass from Center Changes It.

In the seconds in which the lead reversed a mistake was made which Fenwick believed could not happen. James [Moon] Mullen, 17 year old center, made the first bad pass of his career and Mount Carmel converted it into a touchdown. The winning point was scored when John McCallum's kick for the extra point sailed between the uprights.

Mount Carmel's third march started in the final period after McCallum's fourteen yard pass to Frank Meakim had put the ball on Fenwick's 38 yard line. Fenwick was penalized five yards and then McCallum, on a double reverse, ran to the 21. Meakim picked up four yards and on his second attempt was stopped by Mullen for no gain.

Pass Brings Score.

A pass, McCallum to End William O'Neill, failed and Fenwick took the ball. George Elder, 152 pound halfback, stepped back as his signal was called to run to the right. Center Mullen's pass sailed high to the left and after Mount Carmel and Fenwick players had scrambled for the ball it slipped into the hands of Norman Hall, 16 year old end, for a touchdown.

Fenwick's touchdown came late in Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Chicago's powerful Bears, making their only appearance in the Metropolitan area this year, defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 24 to 6, before 26,000 in a National football league game on Ebbets field today.

The Bears displayed power all through the game, scoring touchdowns in the first, second and fourth periods and a field goal in the second. Brooklyn got its touchdown in the second quarter.

Backs Riddle Brooklyn Line.

Chicago's plunging backs carried the balance of power. Jack Manders, Gene Ronzani, Gary Famiglietti, and Sam Francis all were successful in cracking the Dodger line as Chicago rolled up seventeen first downs. The Bears picked up 234 yards from rushing while the Dodgers made 155. The Bears made 172 yards on forward passes and the Dodgers sixty-seven.

After Kercheval had kicked out of bounds on the Bear 20 yard line the Chicago team started to roll. With their great plunging backs, Manders, Famiglietti and Ronzani, bearing the brunt of the attack, it took the Bears exactly thirteen plays to march eighty yards and score. They punched out four first downs and capped the drive with a sixteen yard pass from Buivid to Wilson for the touchdown

Bears March Again.

Maniaci registered a field goal for the Bears early in the second quarter when Albanez of Brooklyn fumbled on his 31 yard line. A pass, Masterson to Karr, was good for twenty-one yards and then, after the Brooklyn defense held, the old Fordham star dropped back to the 15 yard line and made good on the kick.

With Albanez doing most of the ball-carrying the Dodgers brought the ball to the Chicago 35 yard line after receiving the kickoff. There Kercheval attempted a field goal but it was short.

This gave the Bears a chance to move and they drove to another touchdown. Swisher made a first down and then a pass from Masterson to Karr was good for fifty-two yards. Maniaci took a lateral from Masterson, and, aided by some beautiful blocking, went over for the touchdown.

Bears Score Again.

The Dodgers registered their only touchdown as the period was nearing its close. After Francis had kicked over the goal line, a pass, Parker to Schwartz, and a lateral on the same play, Schwartz to Kosel, gave Brooklyn the ball on the Bear 40 yard line. With Parker passing accurately, the Dodgers made three first downs in a row. Then Ace passed to Schwartz over the goal line. Parker's attempted kick was blocked.

Early in the fourth quarter Francis intercepted a Parker pass on the Dodger 44 yard line. Francis, Manders, and Swisher hammered the Brooklyn line for three first downs and then, on a pass which caught the Brooklyn team napping, Conkright scored. It was thrown by Masterson.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night held on to the top ranking they have enjoyed since the start of the National league hocky season by playing the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 1 to 1 overtime tie. Paying guests to the total of 17,302 which included 2,000 standees, witnessed a well played but comparatively peaceful encounter.

The Hawks were the first to score. Johnny Gottselig, assisted by Baldy Northcott and Russ Blinco, backhanded one home in 11:56 of the opening period. The tally was the result of a zig-zag maneuver executed while Johnny was filling in on a power combination after Reggie Hamilton had been locked up for checking Doc Romnes into the boards.

Hawks Take a Nap.

The Leafs tied it up in 7:56 of the second period, when they appeared to have caught the champions drowsing a bit. George Parsons got the puck in the Leaf defense zone, carried it straight down the ice till Bill Thoms picked up. Bill continued a straight course until the puck started rolling. Instead of trying to flatten the rolling rubber, Gus Marker handled it hoop fashion, and fired it right over Goalie Mike Karakas' boots and into the cage.

Those of the capacity crowd who expected to see mayhem as a result of last spring's hardfought Stanley Cup finals perhaps were disappointed. Both sides fought hard and skated fast but there was little real rough stuff. The Hawks, warned of the necessity of keeping a full force on the ice, engaged in a minimum of funny business. Bill MacKenzie was put off for slashing in the thirteenth minute of the first period and that was the only penalty called on the Chicagoans.

Leafs Play Safe, Too.

The Hawks scored on the first Leaf penalty and that converted the visitors to a safe and sane policy similar to that of the Hawks. Consequently, there were only two other penalties against Sport Smythe's boys, both incurred by the softened bad boy, Red Horner.

Although Fainting Red drew one half of the total penalties against both teams, he was meek as the pussycat all evening. Both of his infractions were technical. He was charged with holding right after his team scored in the second period and he went off for tripping after thirty seconds of the overtime. He indulged in a minimum of bodily contacts and ventured into the Hawk defensive zone only on the rare occasions when he couldn't find a forward to whom to slide the puck.

The game was the second engagement between the two teams, the Hawks having whipped the Leafs, 2 to 0, in Toronto on Nov. 5.

They Needed a Tie.

The tie gave the Hawks a point, just enough to keep them in first place, with a total of nine points. The Leafs have eight points and the Rangers, by beating Detroit, 4 to 1, last night, moved into a second place tie with the Toronto lads.

The Hawks continue to lead in goals, with a new total of sixteen, despite their 1 to 0 shutout, their only loss of the season, at the hands of the New York Rangers, last Thursday night.

Vopel and Kilian Play Soccer, and Do All Right

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Heinz Vopel and Gustav Kilian, the German six day bicycle riders, turned to another sport today when they appeared in the lineup of the Minerva Soccer club against the German-Hungarian eleven. The Minerva team was defeated, 2 to 1, but the losers goal was made by Vopel, who played outside right. Kilian played at center.

FOUR VETERAN SHOW DOGS WIN WESTERN TITLES

$7,000 Sealyham Fails in Judging Ring.

Four nationally known show dogs with imposing records yesterday were named best of their respective breeds as the twenty-eighth annual dog show of the Western Specialty Clubs association was concluded in the Coliseum.

The four well known winners were Champion Nornay Saddler, the smooth haired fox terrier which holds the all-time American record of thirty-seven best in show awards; Champion Herman Rinkton, dachshund which chalked up his seventieth best of breed victory; English champion Madcap of Herds, Sealyham terrier which defeated Ballerina of Overport, the Sealy recently sold for $7,000, and Champion Hertzville Blue Headliner, Chicago-owned collie which is following in the footsteps of a famous sire—Champion Hertzville Headstone.

It's a Great Family.

The results of the collie judging show that sons and daughters of Hertzville Headstone continue to dominate the picture in collie showrings. Three offspring of Headstone, all owned by Thomas Halpin and C. J. Cassleman of Chicago, were in the ring last night when the best of breed award was made. Champion Hertzville Blue Headliner won the high prize, but part of his competition came from Hertzville Headstudy and Champion Hertzville Historian.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Eddie Shore celebrated his return to the Boston Bruins lineup tonight by inspiring a late scoring burst that overwhelmed the Detroit Red Wings, 4 to 1, in a National league hocky game before 12,000 in Boston garden.

Shore, who had been a holdout until last week, rallied the Bruins by leading a rink length charge that carried him into the right corner, from where he aimed a pass that little Bobby Bauer slapped into the Detroit cage to break a 1 to 1 tie in the third period.

Even Battle for While.

Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumart of Boston then counted in rapid order, the latter without assistance, after trapping the Red Wings in the center zone, to turn the contest into a rout.

The game was an even battle up until then. Neither team was able to break through during the first two periods. The first goal was registered by Charlie Conacher of the Wings with Mud Bruneteau's assistance, but Cooney Weiland rammed in Bill Hollett's pass to tie it six minutes later. Then came the Bruins' three goals. Lineup:

C. Y. O. Battle Scene Shifts to Joliet Ring

Suburban entrants in the eighth annual Catholic Youth organization boxing tournament will meet tonight and tomorrow night in Catholic High school gymnasium in Joliet.

These lads will battle it out for two evenings for the right to take part in the semi-final contests, which are scheduled for the nights of Nov. 29 and 30 in the C. Y. O. Center gymnasium, 31 East Congress street.

Two Sections Are Ready.

Boxers from two sections, south and west, have qualified for the semi-finals. Boys from the north side will be the last to qualify. North section preliminary victors will box Friday night in the C. Y. O. Center gym. Those who come through will appear in the semi-finals.

Four of last year's open division title winners are among the thirty-two lads who already have moved into the semi-final engagements. They are Walter Cavalieri, Joe Du Pont, Joe O'Connell and Curtis McDaniel. Of this group, McDaniel is the only one who is defending his crown. The other three have grown heavier since last year and now are competing in different weight classes.

Cavalieri Moves Up.

Cavalieri, 112 pound champion last year, is now boxing as a 118 pounder; Du Pont, featherweight king in 1937, now competes as a lightweight, and O'Connell, 135 pound king last year, is a 147 pound semi-finalist. Du Pont won the C. Y. O. 126 pound crown in 1936 and 1937. O'Connell is seeking his third C. Y. O. title. In 1936 he was the novice 126 pound champion, and last year he competed in the open class and came through as the 135 pound ruler.

WHITE STARS, BUT EAGLES DEFEAT PIRATES, 14 TO 7

Whizzer Runs 79 Yards for a Touchdown.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The combined efforts of Dave Smukler, Bill Hewitt, and Dick Riffle outweighed the individual brilliance of Whizzer White today and the Philadelphia Eagles took a firm hold on fourth place in the National pro league by downing the Pittsburgh Pirates, 14 to 7, before 6,000.

Only a seventy-nine yard touchdown by White in the third period kept the Pirates in the game.

Lions Score on Pass; Beat Cards, 7 to 3

it wound up on the 7, where Milt Popovich, Cardinal rookie half back, dumped Lloyd Cardwell for a four yard loss.

The score was indicative of the relative strength of the teams. Statistically, they were virtually even, but the Cardinals did most of their gaining in their territory. Their attack might have fared better had they made more use of Gaynell Tinsley, one of football's greatest pass receivers. They ignored Tinsley completely until midway in the third quarter when Dwight Sloan fired three passes to him. Tinsley caught all three.

Tie on First Downs with 11.

Each team made eleven first downs. The Cardinals gained 146 yards by rushing to Detroit's 126 and advanced 79 yards on passes to 80 for the Lions. In total yardage the Cardinals had an advantage of 225 to 206. They attempted thirteen passes and completed five. Detroit connected with three of nine passes. The Cardinals fumbled twice, both of which broke up marches. The Lions fumbled once, Ace Gutowsky's bobble setting up the Cardinals' march to a three point lead.

Outstanding performers in the Cardinal lineup were Tony Blazine, the veteran tackle; Sammy Agee, the rookie full back from Vanderbilt, whose performance was marred somewhat by a tendency to fumble after cracking through for gains, and Sloan.

Cards Take Early Lead.

The Cards' three point lead early in the first quarter developed from a fifty-five yard advance that bogged down on the 17 yard line. The Cardinals had gained possession on their 28, where Buddy Parker tackled the ball as Ace Gutowsky came barging through the line for a seventeen yard gain. Robbins recovered for Chicago. The Cardinals' third play was a pass off a wide reverse almost identical to the one the Lions have used so successfully for several years. Instead of sending the right end down the field, however, the Cardinals sent down the full back, Parker.

They had used the play earlier, but Lawrence ignored Parker in the open and passed to the other side of the field, where Huffman intercepted it. The second time Lawrence spied Parker and threw him the ball for a forty-six yard gain and a first down on the 24. Lawrence added four yards after his first down pass had fallen incomplete and Parker had spun over center for three yards. On fourth down Smith kicked a field goal.

Moscrip Goes Over.

Detroit received the ensuing kickoff and promptly wiped out the Cardinals' lead. Huffman brought the kick back thirty yards to the 30. Gutowsky got four yards outside the Cardinals' right tackle and Cardwell made fourteen on a reverse through the same spot. Gutowsky hit center for five more, placing the ball on the Cardinal 47.

On third down, Moscrip cut in behind the Cardinals' line from his right end position and took a short pass from Huffman. Cuppoletti and Robbins had him trapped along the side lines, but he faked them into hesitating and raced down the side of the field for forty yards and a touchdown. Moscrip added the extra point.

RAMS ARE ROUTED BY LOS ANGELES PRO ELEVEN, 28-7

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 20—(AP)—The Los Angeles Bulldogs routed another National league pro football eleven today, scoring a 28 to 7 victory over the Cleveland Rams before 17,000.

Cleveland scored as a result of a Bulldog fumble on the first play after the kickoff, but after that was soundly whipped. Phil Ragazzo recovered the loose ball and lateralled to Chuck Cherundolo, who crossed the line from about the 15 yard mark.

The Bulldogs struck back twice in the second period, climaxing marches with touchdown passes thrown by Quarter Back Bill Howard to Right End Bill Moore. Again in the third quarter Los Angeles drove sixty-seven yards and Gordon Gore scored on another pass. Elvin Hutchinson sprinted thirty-four yards along the sidelines for the final touchdown.

Giants Defeat Packers, 15-3, Before 48,279

chance. An avalanche of blockers swarmed over him and Leemans sprinted the last forty yards with no Packer within hailing distance.

Leemans' touchdown, supplemented by his placement for the point, gave the Giants a 9 to 3 lead. In theory, at least, they still might be defeated by a Packer touchdown. And briefly, the Packers rallied, received the kickoff on their own 28, and linked together two first downs to advance to midfield as the third quarter ended.

That final hope was crushed on the first play of the last quarter as suddenly as Leemans had rushed to the winning score. It was third down and eleven yards were needed for a first down. Isbell shot a pass to his left in the flat zone where Arnie Herber ran. But Hein, who had gone back into the secondary, raced in to cut off the ball. He came down on the 50, recovered, and ran down the north side line to score. Ward Cuff's attempt for the point struck the left goal post.

A Blow to Packers.

Hein's interception definitly placed the decision out of the Packers' reach. More, they had spent their best efforts hammering uselessly at the line and in completing passes that never broke a receiver entirely free. Green Bay made twenty-one first downs to New York's six. They made eleven of these in the second half to two for New York. Green Bay gained 314 yards from scrimmage to New York's 187. The Packers gained 141 yards in ten completed passes on twenty-nine attempts in astounding comparison with the Giants' gain of five yards in six passes, two of which were completed.

But New York intercepted five Packer passes, proof of the Giants' alert secondary that adequately supported the five man line the Giants set up against the Green Bay running attack.

FENGER TACKLE, INJURED IN TITLE GAME, IS BETTER

Arthur Yampolsky, 17 year old Fenger High school tackle, who was injured when Fenger defeated Harrison Tech, 32 to 18, for the Public School league football championship Saturday, remained in Roseland Community hospital yesterday.

Yampolsky is believed to be suffering from a brain concussion. Hurt on the opening play of the second half of the game in Soldiers' field, he has not yet regained complete consciousness, although his condition is described as improved. X-rays will be taken within the next few days. Physicians said it may be a week or ten days before he will be released from the hospital.

the second quarter after Tony Ortenzi, Fenwick's 168 pound tackle, had recovered John Andretich's fumble on Mount Carmel's 25 yard line. Johnny Barrett plunged through the center of the line for seven yards. Barrett then attempted a pass which was knocked down by Tom Creevy, Mount Carmel quarter back, near the goal line.

Elder picked up two yards and Barrett made it first down on the Mount Carmel 15. Barrett then fired the ball to John Kelly, 17 year old end and brother of Fenwick's former star tackle, Pete Kelly, now at Notre Dame, for the score. Jack Barry, 160 pound end, attempted a place kick for the extra point, but it went low and wide.

Mount Carmel, which threatened in the first and third periods, made eleven first downs to Fenwick's seven. The champions made 135 yards by rushing and Fenwick, 91. Fenwick completed two out of twelve passes for thirty-six yards and Mount Carmel made good on two out of seven tosses for seventy-seven yards.

It was Mount Carmel's fourth league championship. It triumphed in 1927, 1931, and 1933. The south siders were routed by Harrison Technical, 44 to 0, in the 1931 all-city game, but returned two years later and defeated Harrison, 6 to 0.

NORWAY MOURNS DEATH OF QUEEN MAUD IN LONDON

Crown Prince Olaf Speeds to Side of Father.

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The death of Queen Maud of Norway in London was announced to the Norwegian people today in an official broadcast. Crown Prince Olaf arranged to leave tonight for London. King Haakon VII. already is in London.

Premier Johan Nygaardsvold, with other members of the cabinet, paid a call of condolence on Prince Olaf. The premier will act as regent during the absence of both the king and crown prince in England.

Despite a law prohibiting the publication of Sunday newspapers, Nygaardsvold gave permission for special editions to be issued. The premier said of the queen:

"We who had been more closely connected with the royal family knew what a warm, generous personality she was. The government and myself personally had learned to appreciate her burning interest for the Norwegian people and Norway."

England Proclaims Mourning.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Queen Maud of Norway, aunt of King George VI. of Great Britain and the last surviving child of King Edward VII., died early today of a heart attack following an abdominal operation four days ago. She was 68 years old.

King George commanded four weeks of mourning for Queen Maud, who died exactly thirteen years to the day after her mother, Queen Alexandra.

King Absent at Death.

Her death came so suddenly that King Haakon of Norway, who was staying at Buckingham palace and had been almost constantly with his queen, was not at her bedside. She died in her sleep at 12:25 a. m. with only her nurse in the room.

Queen Maud was taken ill about a week ago during one of her frequent visits here. She was married to Haakon at Buckingham palace on July 22, 1896. She was a sister of the late King George V.

FATHER ON WAY TO CALIFORNIA TO AID CHILD BRIDE

Tallula, Ill., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Edgar Robinson, who witnessed the marriage of his daughter, Velma, 14 years old, to Jones Scott Greene, 60, in Wickliffe, Ky., fifteen days ago, flew today to Los Angeles to keep his daughter from becoming a ward of the court. Greene took his child bride to Los Angeles last week and was arrested for carrying a blackjack the day after his arrival.

Velma R. Greene.

Detention of the bride, who quit the seventh grade of a country school to be married, was decided upon by Los Angeles juvenile officers until they determined whether parents of the girl want the marriage annulled. When the couple was separated last week the girl said she never wanted to see Greene again because he had not kept his promise to buy an engagement ring for her.

It was believed here that Robinson, the father of nine children, would try to convince his daughter she should remain with her husband and that he would tell Los Angeles officials the marriage had his full approval.

STUDY SHOWS BIG CITY IS A HOTBED OF TUBERCULOSIS

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The annual barometer of tuberculosis, the death rates of forty-six American cities, was announced today by the New York Tuberculosis and Health association. It is the first national report on tuberculosis in cities during 1937.

It shows that compared with 1936 the deaths rose in eleven cities and fell in thirty-five. The average for all forty-six cities was a 5 per cent drop in mortality.

In the ten largest cities the rates were higher than the nation's average. These were: Boston, 56; Pittsburgh and Los Angeles, 57; Detroit, 61; Chicago, 62; New York, 65; Cleveland and Philadelphia, 66; St. Louis, 67, and Baltimore, 101.

SEEK STATE PROBE OF $100,000 FIRE IN MELROSE PARK

Fire Chief Anthony Prignano of Melrose Park said yesterday he would ask the state fire marshal to investigate the fire which earlier in the day gutted the two story brick building of the Home Department store, 153 Broadway, in the village. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

The fire was discovered by Policeman George Leonard after the flames had started at the rear of the building and spread to the roof. The south wall of the building fell on the roof of the adjoining one story building. No one was injured. Chief Prignano said he was unable to determine the cause of the blaze.

In another suburb, firemen fought a stubborn fire which destroyed the warehouse of the W. W. Koehler Paper company at 2217 Grove street in Blue Island. Damage was estimated at $25,000. No one was in the building at the time. The origin of the fire was not learned.

A $5,000 fire last night damaged the upper floors of a four story building at 162 North Desplaines street.

RULING EXPECTED ON MARRIAGE OF SHANAHAN TODAY

Judge George W. Bristow of Paris, sitting in the Circuit court here, is expected to rule today in the suit seeking to set aside the marriage of the late David E. Shanahan and to void the will leaving most of his $850,000 estate to his widow, Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan.

Shanahan, veteran Illinois legislator, died two years ago, thirteen days after he married the former Miss Troesch, his secretary, in Mercy hospital. The suit to void the marriage and will was brought by the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn, Shanahan's cousins. They are left most of the estate under a previous will.

The cousins contend Shanahan was irrational at the time of the marriage. A year ago a jury was unable to agree in the case. In the present trial Judge Bristow is hearing the case without a jury. He is to announce his ruling after final arguments by attorneys.

FORMER ILLINOIS CONVICT HELD AS CANADIAN KILLER

Oregon, Ill., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Seized on a farm near here last night, Henry Wesley Heipel, 24 years old, was held in the Ogle county jail today for investigation in connection with the slaying of a farmer whose bullet-pierced body was found last Monday near Sintaluta, Saskatchewan.

Sherif Delos Blanchard said Heipel, a farm hand, was taken into custody at the request of Canadian authorities. Heipel, whose mother lives at nearby Myrtle, was identified by Sherif Blanchard as a former Ogle county convict who was released from the Illinois state prison last March after serving 15 months for forgery.

Sherif Blanchard said Heipel admitted he came here from Canada Wednesday.

The slain farmer was J. A. Kaeser, 65 years old, of Moosomin, Sask., who lived in St. Louis, Mo., and Madison, Wis., before moving to Canada in 1906.

ITALIAN WOMAN BEATIFIED; POPE GIVES BLESSING

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The venerable Maria Dominica Mazzarello of Italy, co-founder of the Daughters of Maria Auxiliatrix, was beatified today in St. Peter's cathedral. Don Giovanni Bosco, the other co-founder of the order, was sanctified in 1934 and it was expected that further steps will be taken to elevate the Blessed Maria Mazzarello to saintbood.

The ceremonies today were the third of their kind in two weeks, two other founders of orders of nuns having been beatified on preceding Sundays. They were Mother Francesca Saverio Cabrini of the United States, founder of the Missionaries of the Sacred Heart, and Mother Maria Giuseppa Rossello, founder of the Daughters of Our Lady of Mercy.

As before, the cathedral was brilliantly lighted and colorfully decorated for the ceremonies, which began in the morning with the reading of the decree of beatification. In the afternoon Pope Pius went to St Peter's with the cardinals to venerate the new blessed. He knelt for some minutes before a large portrait of the venerable mother and prayed. Then he assisted at the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and imparted the apostolic blessing.

The dead were James, 7 years old; Grace, 5, and Ellen Cole, 17 months old, and William Bristol, a neighbor, who was staying with the children. Cole, a WPA worker, and his wife were called from the party a few miles away, but were forced to stand by helplessly as the fierce fire razed their home with their children inside.

SOUTH BEND MILK DELIVERY TIED UP BY DRIVER STRIKE

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Consumers in South Bend and Mishawaka obtained their milk supply from stores or went to the dairy company plants today. The only retail deliveries made were to hospitals and public institutions.

Union drivers for the Reliable dairy went on strike last night for a closed shop contract. Members of the South Bend-Mishawaka milk council, composed of retail dairy companies, decided to suspend all deliveries. Two hundred and sixty-seven employés are affected. About ninety belong to the Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Stablemen or America, a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Paul Donohue, president of the local, said his members had no intention of interfering with delivery of milk. A committee has been negotiating with the Reliable dairy for several weeks, and the walkout called last night is intended only to bring a showdown with the Reliable company, he said.

U. S. TRADE CUT BY NAZI BARTER WITH MEXICANS

Office Device Firms Losing Sales.

New York, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—German office appliances, sent to Mexico in exchange for oil taken from expropriated American and other foreign wells, are crowding competitive American products from 75 per cent of their former market there. Manufacturers of typewriters, adding machines, and similar goods complained of this loss today. Competition along similar lines has been encountered in Brazil, Argentina, Colombia and other Latin-American countries as a result of barter deals, it was said.

Smarting under the loss of most of their Mexican business, the office appliance producers are considering a joint appeal to government officials to see what can be done to remedy the situation.

Figures Show Decline.

As an example of the inroads made by Germany, manufacturers point to statistics showing that in 1936 American typewriter manufacturers held 90 per cent of the Mexican market, with Germany getting 7 per cent of the sales. Last year this country's sales dropped to 82 per cent of the market and the German business rose to 12 per cent. In the first half of this year, according to producers' figures, American machines supplied only 57 per cent of the market and Germany 36 per cent.

Since June, they said, the percentage has fallen ever lower. In the last six weeks word has gone out among buyers for Mexican governmental departments to take only German machines which are shipped with other German products, in exchange for oil.

Sales of American office appliances in Mexico in 1936 amounted to $1,245,587 and to $1,509,537 last year.

Others Watch Situation.

Other exporters are watching developments in the office appliance companies' protests with interest. Many other lines in which American products held a dominant position in Mexico until the oil barter transactions with Germany were arranged have felt the pinch of German competition and are anxious to find some means of reestablishing themselves there.

According to the office appliance men, it is impossible to make a comparison between the prices at which German producers are selling their office equipment products to Mexico and the quotations given by Americans. This is due to the fact that the barter value of the German typewriters is closely guarded by both Germans and Mexicans. Unofficial figures obtained by the American producers, however indicate that German typewriters are being offered at prices as low as 100 pesos fthe peso is currently quoted at 20.75 cents), compared with the 400 to 500 pesos which Americans must charge after paying the high duties assessed against nonbarter goods.

Valley Group Pushes War on Seaway Pact

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—The twentieth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association will open here tomorrow. Its program will cover a wide range of economic interests in the valley, stressing the need of restoring railroads to a solid footing and opposing the revised St. Lawrence seaway treaty.

Objectives of the association, as outlined in the program, are:

1. Protection of the shipper against interstate commerce commission regulation of port to port rates of inland water carriers.

2. Opposition to the seaway treaty, which is asserted to be prejudicial to the lakes-to-gulf waterway.

3. Protection of navigation, flood control, and state rights against "regimentatio. under politically appointed authorities."

Seek Quick Flood Control Action.

4. Speedy completion of the national flood control program.

5. Amendment of the national labor relations act and the wage-hour act "to protect both industry and labor."

6. Enactment of the Parsons bill to assure adequate diversion of water for the Illinois waterway.

Other objectives of the association include conservation and economic use of water resources; increased participation of the valley in foreign trade; support of the American merchant marine; increased north and south movement of commerce, and extension of joint river-rail rates and routes to serve the entire valley.

Committee Members Meet.

Members of the trafic committee of the asosciation, of which C. E. Child of Omaha, Neb., is chairman, met today to draw up a program as did the committee on the use of water resources. Both committees will report their findings at the session Tuesday.

Arthur J. Weaver, former governor of Nebraska, president, will open the two day meeting tomorrow. Maj. Gen. Julian L. Schley, chief of the army engineers, will speak at the morning session.

Congressmen to Speak.

The afternoon sessions will include talks by Congressman W. J. Driver of Arkansas and Congressman Claude Parsons of Illinois, Capt. O. Slack Barrett, president of the Ohio Valley Improvement association; Thomas M. Woodward of the United States maritime commission, and Dr. G. E. Condra, dean of the conservation division of the University of Nebraska.

At a banquet tomorrow night the speakers will be United States Senator Bennett C. Clark of Missouri, United States Senator L. Hill of Alabama, and the Rev. Dr. John L. Davis of New York.

American Manufacturing Co.

Investors' Guide: Please send a report on American Manufacturing company, listed on the New York Curb.—L. E. W.

Answer: This company, formed in 1910, manufactures manila rope, twines, plumbers' oakum, clothes lines, rugs, fabrics for chair coverings, and automobile slip covers. Its products are sold under the brands "Amco" and "Nu-Art." Several branches are operated throughout the United States and one is located in Calcutta, India.

In Brooklyn, N. Y., the company's plant and holdings include about 4½ city blocks adjoining the water front. Other plants are in St. Louis, Philadelphia, and Charleston, S. C.

After five years of unprofitable operations during the depression the company shared in the general upswing and in 1935 was in the black. Last year its sales totaled $7,549,448 and net income was $428,744, equal to $3.57 a common share after preferred dividend requirements. This compared with sales of $6,598,132 and net income of $480,258 or $4.17 a common share in the preceding year. In 1935 sales totaled $5,312,173 and net income was $112,687, not enough to cover dividends on the preferred stock. Net losses from 1930 to 1934, inclusive, ranged from $104,788 to $1,229,098.

No interim earnings have been reported so far this year. Early this month the company announced it was closing its Charleston, S. C., mill for an undetermined period because of government competition, the wages and hours law, and a short cotton crop.

There are outstanding 31,357 shares of 5 per cent cumulative preferred $100 par stock, and 76,262 shares of $100 par common stock. The company has no funded debt.

Regular dividends are being paid on the preferred stock. Disbursements on the common stock have been omitted so far this year. Last year $4 was paid on the common, and in 1936 common dividends totaled $3 a share.

RULES WORKERS CANNOT WAIVE OVERTIME PAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Elmer Andrews, administrator of the wage-hour law, said today an employer could not legally escape provisions of the act by obtaining the consent of an employé to overtime work without extra pay. Andrews asserted such procedure would subject the employer to penalties.

The children's bureau of the labor department issued a regulation, meanwhile, governing application of the child labor provisions of the act. The regulation provides steps to be taken before an industry can be declared hazardous or detrimental for minors between 16 and 18 years old.

The first step is for the bureau to consider available information. Then a proposed finding is to be published and a public hearing conducted. Should this hearing result in substantial change in the proposed order, a rehearing is promised. Next the bureau will issue the final order. Then revision may be proposed in writing and opportunity obtained for a hearing or submission of written argument.

K. C. SOUTHERN CHIEF TO HEAD RAIL EXECUTIVES

Hot Springs, Ark., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Harvey C. Couch, chairman of the board of directors of the Kansas City Southern railway, said tonight Charles E. Johnson, president of the line, had accepted tentatively the chairmanship of the Western Association of Railway Executives. The association's offices are in Chicago.

Couch said Johnson had not yet resigned the presidency of the railroad but that if he definitly accepted the new position he would leave the road Jan. 1.

Couch had no comment on reports he might succeed Johnson as K. C. S. president. The Kansas City Star said talk of a successor to Johnson centered upon Couch and W. N. Deramus, vice president of the road in charge of operations.

"It would not be appropriate for me to comment on Mr. Johnson's successor," said Couch.

More About Alloys.

The growing use of alloys results from the need of industry for a number of properties in one material that is not found in any single metal.

Equipment in the chemical and food processing industries must possess both great strength and corrosion resistance. Alloys made by combining nickel and copper, iron, chromium and nickel, and nickel and chromium are used for this purpose.

Other alloys that are immune to severe abrasive wear and sudden shock are used in the mining, cement, and ceramics industries.

The increase in the use of electricity has been a great stimulus to the development of alloys. Alloys are used in household utilities, radios, long distance telephones, and transmission cables.

The International Nickel company has developed an alloy of nickel and iron [36 per cent nickel] which neither expands nor contracts over a wide range of temperature. Neither of the constituent metals has a similar property.

NAZIS TIGHTEN POLITICAL RULE OVER BUSINESS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Another move has been made toward the achievement of a full National Socialist German economy. A decree has just been issued requiring all principals in commercial, industrial, and trade organizations within the reich to be approved by the party.

This decision was reached through an agreement between Rudolf Hess, minister without portfolio, and Walther Funk, minister of economics. Commenting on this today, the National Socialist party Korrespondenz declared: "Politics and business now are less separable than ever."

OFFICIAL OF RFC URGES ACTION TO HELP RAILROADS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—[Special.]—Creation of a federal department of transportation with a secretary of transportation of cabinet rank has been recommended to the transportation conference of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, it was learned today. The suggestion was made by Cassius M. Clay, head of the railroad legal section of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The conference will convene here tomorrow to study ways to aid the railroads. It consists of railroad executives, shippers, and investors.

Clay, writing in an unofficial capacity, urged early congressional action to put the carriers on a paying basis. He held that it would not be sufficient merely to rely on better times to lift the railroads out of their difficulties. He dismissed government ownership as undesirable.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Succotash Silage.

November 20, 1938.

SUCCOTASH silage made from corn and soy beans is expected to become popular among dairymen of northern Illinois. A combination corn-soy bean silage made a good showing in a feeding test just completed on Sydney G. McAllister's dairy farm two miles northwest of Elgin.

This test is among other silage and silo experiments that are being made this winter by McAllister, who is president of the International Harvester company.

The succotash silage was made by mixing from 8 to 10 per cent soy beans with the corn. The ears were left on the cornstalks and the beans were left on the soy bean plants. The mixture was stored in a temporary silo made with four sections of a snow fence, the kind commonly used along highways in Illinois.

Holds 50 Tons.

It is estimated that the silo holds about fifty tons. About 250 pounds of bright straw was spread over the bottom of the silo. When the dairymen at the farm finished feeding the silage last week they found it in perfect condition from top to bottom. Even the straw was bright and almost dry. The dairy cows ate every bite including the straw.

The snow fence used in the test is made of wooden palings held together with wire. It required four fifty foot sections of the snow fence to make the silo, 16 feet deep and 18 feet in diameter. The sections were held in place by having the three upper sections overlap each of the lower sections about four inches. Extra strands of heavy wire were fastened around each section to strengthen the wall.

Waterproof fiber paper was used in lining the paling wall to trap the juice that came from the corn stalks and soy bean plants. Men in charge of the McAllister experiments consider the snow fence silo an effective and inexpensive way of storing silage. Temporary silos are not commonly used in this section.

Hay Silage Tested.

Northern Illinois dairy farmers also are watching the results of a test being made at the McAllister farm, where a 200 ton silo is filled with alfalfa and clover mixed with molasses and topped with a nine foot layer of corn silage. The dairymen have just started feeding this mixture and are not yet ready to report on the keeping qualities and feeding value.

Approximately seventy-five pounds of corn sugar molasses were added to each ton of the legume silage mixture as the material was cut and blown into the silo. The molasses cost $23.20 a ton in five ton lots, or $24.20 in one ton lots. The silo was filled last June.

Men in charge of the test say that experienced dairymen find it advisable to use a silo with strong walls and provide drains at the bottom to carry away the excess juice where the silage is made of a mixture of legumes and molasses. They have reports of farmers having had silos filled with legumes to break open where the silos were old, the walls weak, and drainage insufficient. In the big silo used in the test four 4-inch drain tiles extend through the concrete foundation to carry off the excess silage juice.

Two other silos with a capacity of 175 tons each are filled with corn with the ears attached and soy beans. They have not been opened.

Industry Will Tell Views on Profit Sharing

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Industrial labor peace through some form of profit sharing received emphasis today as the goal of a special senate committee. The committee is scheduled to question a trio of industrial leaders at its initial hearings tomorrow.

Senator Vandenberg [R., Mich.], author of the resolution under which the committee was established, said there could be no other incentive for conducting hearings on the profit sharing issue.

Sears Head to Testify.

"It is for the testimony to demonstrate," Vandenberg said in an interview, "whether some system by which industry shares its profits with labor can bring about improved labor conditions. Perhaps it can and possibly it cannot."

Richard R. Deupree, president of Procter & Gamble Co.; M. B. Folsom, treasurer of the Eastman Kodak company, and Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., head the list of tomorrow's witnesses.

Vandenberg said the question of industrial labor relations would be examined thoroughly when William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, testified Wednesday.

Critics Invited Also.

The committee said in a formal announcement that critics of profit sharing would be "welcomed along with advocates." It said "the sole purpose of this committee is to present an impartial record for the ultimate benefit of American employers who are interested in seeking voluntarily to apply theories of profit sharing to their own institutions."

Federal government participation in any profit sharing program probably would be limited to some form of incentive taxation, by which an employer sharing his profits with his employés would receive a reduction in his tax bill, committee members said.

EXPECT WHEAT DECLINE AFTER TURN OF YEAR

Argentina, Australia to Market Crops.

Efforts to sell new Argentine and Australian wheat are expected to put new pressure on the world wheat market at the beginning of the new year. Both countries usually start marketing on a large scale as soon as the grain is available for export.

This is one development grain brokers were considering last week as they looked around for new factors that might cause a decided change in wheat prices. Another was the question as to the long run effect of the new trade treaties with Canada and Great Britain. Among other things, the British accord removed the 6 cents a bushel tarif levied on American grain shipped into the United Kingdom.

Doubt Treaty Will Aid Sales.

Some traders were of the opinion that the tarif change will not stimulate American wheat sales greatly, asserting British importers still can buy the grain at lower prices elsewhere.

The hunt for new factors in the speculative outlook was stressed especially because of the narrow range within which wheat futures have held recently. The range has been less than 10 cents a bushel in the last four months. The American wheat market has failed to respond to government efforts to raise prices, partly because all important exporting countries are subsidizing exports.

Many brokers consider corn a better speculative medium than wheat at present. At times recently sales of corn futures have exceeded those in wheat.

Canada May Buy More Corn.

Under terms of the new Canadian trade treaty, cash corn handlers expect to do an increased export business with the dominion. The treaty cut the tarif to 10 cents a bushel from the 20 cent level that had prevailed since 1936.

The United States formerly sold about 25,000,000 bushels of corn a year to Canada before tarifs hampered the trade. Since then most of the business has gone to Argentina and South Africa.

The range of prices on grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade last week follows:

U. S. STEEL UNIT WILL OPEN NEW PLANT ON DEC. 15

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's new Irvin works near Clairton, Pa., will be formally opened Dec. 15, Chicago officials of the company announced yesterday.

The Irvin plant is a major project in the modernization program of the United States Steel corporation, of which Carnegie-Illinois is a subsidiary. Excavation on the 653 acre site of the plant began May 22, 1937. William A. Irvin, for whom it was named, then was president of United States Steel. He now is vice chairman.

The main units of the Irvin works are an 80 inch hot strip mill, an 84 inch tandem cold reducing sheet mill and a 42 inch tandem cold reducing tin mill. The mills, electrically operated, have an annual capacity of 600,000 tons.

STEEL ACTIVITY RISES AS AUTO OUTPUT GAINS

Other Users Order More Freely.

Steel ingot production last week advanced 1½ points to 63 per cent of theoretical capacity, the magazine Steel estimated yesterday. Best support of the industry continues to come from the automobile makers, the trade journal said, but moderate improvement continues in demand from other steel users.

Strength in scrap markets also is regarded as an encouraging factor. Scrap prices advanced in all markets last week, boosting Steel's composite 50 cents to $14.79 a ton.

Backlogs Bolster Production.

"New business in some products is heavier than a month ago," Steel said, "but with active buying of sheets and strip made unnecessary by previous heavy coverage, total bookings in November appear likely to fall below the October volume.

"Pressure to relieve backlogs of flat rolled steel will bolster steel making the remainder of this quarter, however, and partly is instrumental in giving November ingot output the prospect of showing the largest percentage gain over October in history."

Building and engineering construction continue to take more steel, making a favorable comparison with activity a year ago, the magazine said, "but dullness in railroad steel buying is having an adverse effect on heavy rolled products."

Demand for Plates Lags.

"Demand for plates, shapes, and rails," Steel continued, "is lagging far behind that for sheets and strip. Bars are in a relatively better position, being aided by needs of the automobile industry and miscellaneous consumers, as well as by a moderate pickup in farm equipment building."

Except in sheets and strip, backlogs of orders held by steel producers are relatively small, the magazine reported.

12 MONTH PROFIT OF NEW ENGLAND POWER LOWER

The New England Power association and subsidiaries yesterday reported for the twelve months ended Sept. 30 consolidated net profit of $4,207,897. This was equal, after full provision for preferred stock, to 24 cents a common share, and compared with $6,524,543, or $2.73 a common share, earned in the preceding twelve months.

The United Drill and Tool corporation, Chicago, yesterday reported a net profit of $8,627 for the three months ended Sept. 30. This compared with $109,169 in the corresponding 1937 quarter.
